U. S. OFFICIAL

The Navy Department announced today that the 8016-ton ore carrier Venore was torpedoed twice and sunk off the Atlantic coast Saturday morning.

The vessel, owned by the Ore Steamship Co. of New York, according to official announcement, was the seventh sunk and the eighth attacked by enemy submarines off the Atlantic seaboard in two weeks.

One ship of the eight was only damaged.

22 MEN MISSING

All members of the Venore's crew who were rescued have been landed at Norfolk, Va., the Navy said.

(From Norfolk came word that 22 members of the crew were unaccounted for. Twenty-one crew members were taken ashore.)

First word of the assault on the Venore came, the Navy Department related, when her radio operator flashed a distress call and the ship's position at 12:47 a. m. (EST) Saturday. The call for help said in part:

"Two crashes so far. Will keep informed. Think swimming soon."

TWO OTHER MESSAGES

Two minutes later a second message came through. It said:

"Torpedoed twice. Ship still afloat, but listing badly. Captain requests assistance immediately."

Then the last message crackled out:

"Can not stay afloat much longer."

That was heard at 1:22 a. m. Ships and shore stations again endeavored to contact the Venore by radio, but without results. Apparently there was no delay in getting rescue operations under way.

(The Fifth Naval District in Norfolk announced that the Axis undersea raider attacked the Venore off the North Carolina coast last Friday and that the ship sank on Saturday.)

The Venore, a 550-foot ore carrier, was built by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., Sparrows Point, Md., in 1921.

She was the former Standard Oil tanker Charles G. Black. She was then engaged in the oil trade between New York, Corpus Christi, Tex., and Cartagena.

Her original name was the G Harrison Smith. She carried a crew of 44.

42 From Sunken Norse Ship Saved Off Jersey

SEA ISLE CITY, N. J., Jan. 26 (AP) — Striking without warning, an enemy submarine sank the Norwegian tanker Varanger in a predawn attack only 35 miles off the Jersey coast yesterday, but the crew of 42 was saved.

Three torpedoes rammed the 9305-ton motor ship within 12 minutes in one of the closest to U. S Atlantic coast enemy attacks on shipping, but for the first time since the nation entered the war no lives were lost in Atlantic waters The explosions shook houses in several South Jersey communities, including Atlantic City, 20 miles north of here.

The survivors escaped in two lifeboats which were taken in tow by two fishing smacks that came upon the oil-drenched seamen five hours after the ship went down.

MAJOR NAVAL BATTLE RAGES—One of the biggest sea battles of the war was being fought today in the Straits of Macassar (1) between U. S.-Dutch sea and aerial forces and a Jap convoy fleet . . . In Luzon (2), Gen. MacArthur's valiant forces gained a major victory against the Japs . . . while in Malaya (3), the British defenders of Singapore held the foe in jungle fighting. Bangkok (4) and Hanoi (5) were blasted by British and Chinese fliers . . . while the Jap invasion forces widened landing operations in the South Pacific (6) and the Australians battled the Nippon invaders at Rabaul (7).

Civilians were removed today from cities in New Guinea and Solomon islands as jungle-trained Australian militia battled invasion forces in the hills of New Britain and New Ireland and the Japanese hurled new landing forces on the arc of islands protecting this continent.

Official News

Pounded for days by Japanese forces on the ground and in the air, British imperial forces have surrendered Batu Pahat, western anchor of their Malayan defense line 60 miles from Singapore, and have fallen back to new positions to the south, British headquarters announced today.

The communique announcing the withdrawal indicated there had been no important change elsewhere on the irregular 80 to 90-mile front along which the British, Australian and Indian defenders of Singapore are deployed.

Sharp fighting was reported continuing in the vicinity of Kluang, which is situated 50 miles north of here on the central Malayan railway down which the Japanese have been trying to drive toward this vital naval base.

Little pressure, however, apparently was being exerted by the Japanese on the British right flank, where intermittent artillery fire was said to be holding the in-

OFFICIAL NEWS

By Associated Press

United States and Dutch sea and air forces, locked in a great running battle with a Japanese invasion armada in the Strait of Macassar, have sunk or damaged at least 27 transports and warships in four days.

This may have shattered an attempt to invade Java, heart of the united nations defense in the southwest Pacific.

A communique from the headquarters of the united nations on Java gave a summary of the battle. It said that American flying fortresses have sunk a large Japanese transport and scored a direct bomb hit on a cruiser in a continuation of attacks on an enemy convoy in Macassar Strait.

This news was later confirmed in an official announcement in Washington.

The score against the Japanese in Macassar straits, as thus far reported in the communiques from the Java headquarters, Batavia and Washington, follows:

DESTROYED

Nine transports.
One destroyer.

DAMAGED

One warship, unclassified as to type.
Five cruisers.
Two destroyers.
Nine transports.

Dutch planes, co-operating in the same action, scored a total of four direct hits on two Japanese cruisers and one transport, the United Nations communique said.

JAP PLANES DOWNED

The United Nations announcement reported United States naval forces had scored five torpedo hits on the Japanese flotilla in addition to inflicting damage with gunfire.

During the last 24 hours, Japanese aircraft have been active over a wide area, the communique added. Three enemy planes were reported shot down, two by anti-aircraft fire and another by a Dutch fighter during a raid on an unidentified Netherlands Indies airdrome.

A Netherlands submarine sank one Japanese destroyer and scored a torpedo hit on a cruiser in a night attack in the strait, a Dutch communique announced.

"As the submarine was strongly attacked by enemy ships it was impossible to observe whether the

HITLER'S WAR ON RELIGION

Fuehrer Sets Self Up as Pagan God, Crushes Followers of All Rivals

By FRAU ELISABETH MEYER

Copyright, 1942, by Kayde Publishing Co.

ADOLF HITLER defies God, and seeks to displace Him.

Hitler seeks to rule not only the earth but the minds and hearts and souls of mankind.

So the world today is too small for Hitler and he has doomed himself.

I write this, remembering the recent vivid words of the President of this nation:

"The world is too small to provide adequate 'living room' for both Hitler and God."

In Germany, where I was born, the word "living room" is "lebensraum." It means, literally, room to live. In Germany today, it is more than a word. It is a slogan of conquest.

From childhood, the boys and girls of Germany are taught that their nation needs room to live. They were told that Germany, for her life growth, required other lands in which to expand and develop. Austria . . . Sudetenland . . . Czechoslovakia . . . Poland.

And now the world.

TO this world, to God, and to the God-given rights of humankind, Adolf Hitler has hurled his challenge.

And upon Catholicism, Protestantism and Judaism he has declared all-out, total war. Total war on all religion.

Within the Third Reich and within those nations now prostrate under his heel, he has sought to annihilate religion and set up in its place the ruthless and pagan ideology of Nazism.

In place of God, the Fuehrer has set himself up as a diety to be worshipped; and he will have no other gods—nor God—before him.

NAZI-BOMBED CHURCH IN FRANCE

With contempt for the principles of Christianity, with cynical disregard for freedom of belief, Hitler and his pagan allies, the Japs, and his now reluctant hirelings, the Italians, have consistently flouted the holiness and dignity of religion.

I find this problem discussed with brilliant effectiveness in a recent publication, "Nazism versus Religion," written by a Jesuit priest, the Rev. Raymond T. Feely, S. J., of the University of San Francisco, and published by The Paulist Press of 401 West 59th st., New York. Father Feely states:

"Nazism will seek to exterminate Christianity if Nazism dominates Europe. Too strong a statement? Not nearly as

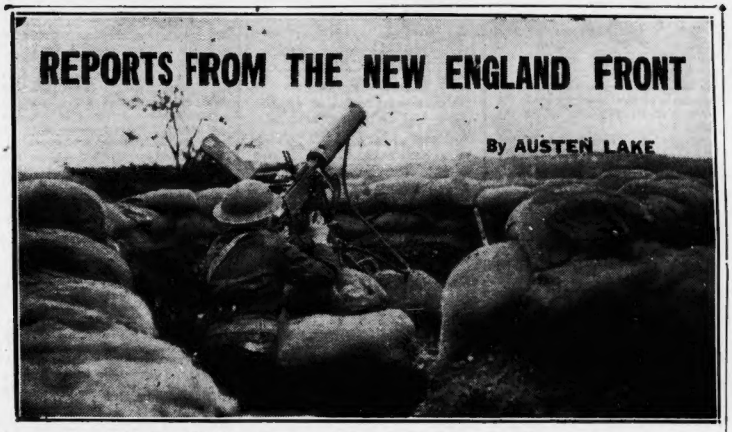
REPORTS FROM THE NEW ENGLAND FRONT

By AUSTEN LAKE



Staff Writer Austen Lake, who has been through the bombing of England, makes an inspection of our coastline defense and comes up with a story reassuring for all New England. Army officials have authorized publication of this article and accompanying photographs.

Hypothetically, which is a fancy word for "make-believe," a Commando party of Nazi marines invaded New England's coastline last night at a strip of level beach which, for purposes of non-identification, shall be called "Never-never Neck." A long-range cruising submarine of the type which has been raiding American shipping, stood in deep water a mile off shore, a dimly silhouetted smudge in the outer darkness, while its deck crew inflated four rubber boats from a compressed air hose.

Six bony, grim-chinned men climbed down the footholds of the sub's side and squatted in each dish-shaped boat, two dozen sea-soldiers dressed in haphazard dungarees of the merchant marine and armed with 32-shot automatic Lugers. Two men in each boat rowed gingerly toward land which lay a black streak against an indigo sky, a segment of New England shore which they knew from hours of careful study of accurate military maps.

Not for nothing had Nazi topographers, disguised as seascape artists, or hoboes or drift wood hunters prowled New England's shore line in late hours, plotting each obscure road and landmark. Only that afternoon the U-boat commander and his oberlieutenant had scrutinized this sector of coast through their periscope, a long and satisfying examination. All during the early evening and half of the night the huge pigboat had lain on the ocean bottom just opposite the prospective invasion point, its oxygen tanks purifying the foul sub-sea air, its Deisels silent while in the crew quarters the oberlieutenant rehearsed his tough, double-dozen.

PLAN TO TERRORIZE N. E.

A dirt road ran from yonder rise through a few miles of scrub wilderness to the harbor town of "Maybe, Mass." Two U. S. prisoners were wanted from the Naval authority. Two prisoners for Nazi questioning about harbor fortifications, mine channels, ship schedules, code signals. That was one grim purpose. The other a terrifying shock to the New England people! Nervous jitters, Ja!

Twenty-four merchant sailors, in shore clothes, would not be noticed in little groups. Their gutteral English would not sound strange. Ships and crews from faraway ports were no novelty to Maybe's townsfolk. No shots! No concerted assault! With normal luck the German Commandos would seize any isolated officer, silence him with a quick clout and return by sly detours to the town limits. If discovered they would imitate a group of alcoholic seamen helping rum-soused mates back to ship.

So the rubber boats coasted gently on the shoreward swells. The white riffle of waves broke softly along the beach and there was a phosphorescent glow in the shallows. Another moment and the rubber rafts would grate gently on the sands.

THEN—ALL-OUT ALARM

Suddenly from a rise behind the beach a spark of bright light cut the gloom in a high ascending arc, flowering into a brilliant star-shell which hung, sputtering and all-revealing, in the sky and spreading a patch of semi-daylight over the raiding Nazis. Another star shell and another as the surprised German officer snapped an order and the Commandos tried frantically to turn their lumbering craft around.

From somewhere in the blackness a Browning "30" began its staccato yammer, spouting little blue licks of flame from its muzzle and sending discordant whines that sounded like snapped banjo strings.

Somewhere along the beachrise U. S. soldiers of the Beach patrol were telephoning a general alert to reserve posts, artillery units and anti-tank sections. From adjoining Observation posts, warned by almost instant telephone reflex, riflemen were gunning through the brambles. Jeep cars with mounted guns were humming from air bases. Infantry reserves were on the way.

FROM MAINE TO FLORIDA

The eyes of New England's coast defense had flashed the impulse to the central brain which had set the muscles of military might into instant action. Within 35 minutes a considerable defensive force had concentrated on the area.

That, as nearly as perhaps, is

NAVY PLEDGE TO WIPE OUT ENEMY BRINGS O. K. OF 20 BILLION FUND

By GRIFFING BANCROFT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (INS)—Backed by a report from Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, pledging the Navy to wipe out the armed fleets of the enemy and to destroy all Axis commercial shipping, the House appropriations committee today approved the expenditure of $20,000,000,000 for the Navy.

This staggering figure, by far the largest single spending bill in American history, will give the United States "unquestioned superiority on the seas, beneath the seas and in the air," according to Adm. Stark.

POINTING FOR 1942

The large sum will triple naval plane production, augment the shipbuilding program, especially in aircraft carriers, and greatly increase naval, Marine and Coast Guard personnel. Coming on top of the previously approved $12,500,000,000 measure for the army air corps, it indicates utmost concentration at present on building up the aviation striking forces.

As it rushed the new huge measure to the floor, where action is expected tomorrow, the committee made public testimony of ranking naval officials, all expressing confidence in ultimate victory, but warning that this year will be the critical one from the military point of view.

"If we can hold our own, and even advance a little, then we will be ready for whatever the expanded production will enable us to do in 1943 and 1944," said Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleet.

It was during this testimony that Admiral Stark announced the following succinct four-point summary of the Navy's "planned objectives":

"1—To increase our naval power to the point of unquestioned supremacy of the seas, beneath the seas, and in the air above the seas.

"2—To gain command of the sea by destruction of the enemies' seagoing forces.

"3—To co-operate with our own military forces and with the naval and military forces of our Allies.

"4—To destroy or contain the enemy's commerce in order to effect economic strangulation, thereby promoting disaffection inside his borders."

TO SPEED SHIP PROGRAM

Broken down, the tremendous bill provides $13,430,339,974 direct cash for the fiscal year starting July 1, and $4,292,225,500 cash and $2,256,400,000 contract authority for this fiscal year, plus whatever is necessary to continue the present $6,000,000,000 shipbuilding program.

Almost half of the new bill goes to step up the ship program by adding to it two more aircraft carriers, two light cruisers, 16 destroyers, and 23 submarines—in all 150,000 combatant tons—800,000 auxiliary tons, and a total of 2599 small vessels mainly for coast patrol work.

A large part of the rest goes to triple naval plane production from 500 planes a month to 1500 a month, according to the testimony of Rear Admr. J. H. Towers, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, who warned that more money will be asked soon. Towers also disclosed that the number of Navy plane carriers is being increased rapidly and that the Navy soon plans to buy 97 huge planes "for overseas cargo transport purposes."

BOLIVIA SET TO BREAK TIES

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Dr. Eduardo Anze Matinezo, Bolivian foreign minister, declared today his government already had drawn up a decree severing relations with the Axis, which would make Bolivia the 17th American nation to break with Germany, Italy and Japan.

He said, although he had not yet received word of the signing of the decree in accord with the recommendation of the Pan-American conference, his government had authorized him to make the announcement.

He said he would notify his fellow foreign ministers and delegates to the conference at the sessions today while the last problems of the conference—including creation of an inter-American defense board—are being ironed out.

The growing list of American republics which have broken off relations with the Axis, swelled by the actions of Uruguay, Paraguay and Peru, was hailed by the conferees.

HAS STATE RIGHT TO AUDIT EL BOOKS? BUSHNELL ASKS COURT

State Supreme Court today was asked by Atty.-Gen. Bushnell to determine whether the Public Control Act which empowered the state to operate the Boston El contained authority for the state to audit the El's books.

Bushnell's request alleges the trustees and their predecessors adopted accounting practices not authorized by the Public Control Act of 1918, involving substantial charges on accounts directly affecting the public of Greater Boston.

The action represents an alternative to the Boston Finance Commission's recommendation of April, 1941, that a suit for an accounting be filed by Bushnell.

The commission suggested the suit in order to determine the correctness of accounting methods of the El since the trustees first took over management in 1918.

Bushnell, opposing such a suit, pointed out that the cost would be tremendous, involving examination of thousands of witnesses on accounting items and would take years to complete.

50 QUESTIONS LISTED

He also warned that a decision for the trustees would mean the money spent would be largely wasted. A suit for equity, on the other hand, Bushnell declared, would obtain a judgment without delay.

Bushnell's suit listed nearly 50 questions to the court concerning the powers and duties of the trustees. Should the court decide in the state's favor, legal basis for an accounting would be established.

Among the questions posed by the Attorney-General were:

"Was it the duty of the trustees to set up and maintain books and accounts, at the inception of public control, separate from the books and accounts of the company which were in existence at the inception of public control?

RECITES PRACTICES

"Was it the duty of the trustees to correct errors and omissions of their predecessors?"

Reciting a long list of accounting practices by the trustees, Bushnell stated:

"Continuance of said methods and practices will result in irreparable injury to the Commonwealth, the cities and towns in which the respondent company operates, and the public affected thereby."

He asked the court to restrain the trustees from continuing any practices considered by the court to be beyond their authority.

Sugar Rations Card Plan to Hit Hoarders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The government went ahead today with plans to ration sugar at approximately a pound per person a week, probably starting early in February.

Leon Henderson, the price administrator, said ration books were being prepared. He said there was a shortage of one-third in the sugar supply, which in 1941 was sufficient to provide a weekly per capita home consumption of a pound and a half.

He hinted attempts would be made to recover stocks held by hoarders.

Henderson said 1942 sugar supplies probably would total 5,300,000 short tons, compared with 7,989,000 in 1941. In normal times this country obtains 2,000,000 tons a year from the Philippines and Hawaii. The RFC has purchased Cuba's entire crop, much of it for the Allies and domestic alcohol for war uses.

Wysanski Takes Oath as Judge

Charles E. Wysanski, 35, of Brookline, one of the youngest men ever to be appointed to such a high judicial post, was today sworn in as judge of the United States District Court here.

The oath was administered by Senior Judge George C. Sweeney in the largest courtroom of the Federal Building before a throng of friends and colleagues of the new judge.

Seated in their judicial robes on the bench with Judge Sweeney were Judge Calvert Magruder of the U. S. Circuit Court and U. S. District Court Judge Francis J. W. Ford. Deputy U. S. Marshall Richard C. Qualters, father of the President's bodyguard, placed the robes of offices on the shoulders of Judge Wysanski.

Wysanski, prominent member of President Roosevelt's "brain-trust" and long familiar in labor law circles, succeeds Judge Hugh D. McLellan who resigned some time ago.

LEGISLATURE GETS WAR PROGRAM OF GOVERNOR

In this war, as in every other war since it became a Commonwealth, Massachusetts will do its share, Gov. Saltonstall told the Legislature today in special session for approval of a 15-point war program.

The governor, opening the emergency war session—the third born of war in a century—asked for $7,000,000 to finance the program.

Gov. Saltonstall

"The United States is at war," he said in his message, read by the clerks in the House and Senate.

"This is a total war. You and I—our fathers, mothers, wives and children—are all at war. Our only goal is victory.

"To win in this total war requires new methods to meet new conditions. War today is vastly different from 25 years ago. It is a war which endangers men, women and children at home, as well as at the front. It is a war which strikes like lightning and without warning.

MUST BE ALERT

"To fight this kind of war demands quick action in meeting new situations which constantly arise.

"I want to feel that I can call you in to a special session for speedy action at any time. With this thought I have kept my recommendations for this session at a minimum.

Then the Goernor's message launched into the 15 points of his war program, and as soon as they had been read a pledge of cooperation came immediately from the Democratic floor leader in the Senate, Chester A. Dolan of Jamaica Plain.

Declaring that "the responsibility for the security and safety of our people in these times is tremendous and urgent," the Governor recommended:

1—Broad wartime powers for himself, giving him the right to seize necessities, including foodstuffs and property, and a strong hand in enforcing blackout and air raid orders.

2—Termination of the Massachusetts Emergency Commission and transferring its powers and duties to the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety, "to eliminate confusion."

3—Temporary re-employment of former employes of the State, or of any sub-divisions, for duration of the war.

4—Authorizing cities and towns to appropriate or borrow funds for purposes of civilian defense.

5—Temporary increase of 10 per cent in salaries of State employes earning less than $2500, in order to help them cope with the increased cost of living.

6—The same temporary pay increase for "certain officers and employes in the service of certain counties."

7—Changes in the highway and reserve fund appropriations for 1942 for certain counties due to doubt concerning the gasoline tax and difficulty in obtaining materials; a recommendation that no new highways be constructed under Chap. 90 during the war.

8—Authorizing the deduction of certain sums from salaries of state employes in order to buy defense bonds—the amounts to be designated by the employes.

9—Extending the powers of the State Board of Housing to take care of housing in localities of industrial expansion.

10—Penalizing stealing, or conspiracy to steal rationed property, or during a blackout the stealing of any property.

BROADER STATE AID LAWS

11—Changing the name of the Massachusetts Nautical School to the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, in order to retain use of the training ship and obtain certain federal funds.

12—Establishment of a group to make certain improvements to protect water supplies during the state of war.

13—Broadening and extension of the laws relative to State aid to veterans and dependents to provide war allowance, State and military aid and soldiers' relief for those in the military or naval service, and their dependents.

14—Authority for the Commonwealth to borrow $1,000,000 toward purchasing food stamps from the federal government and making them available for purchase by citizens who are receiving welfare.

$7,000,000 ASKED

15—Appropriation of $7,000,000 to maintain the Public Safety Committee, the state police, the state guard, additional guards for the Metropolitan District Commission, the increased pay for state employes and the care of citizens in case of bombings and other catastrophies.

As the governor sent his message to the Legislature, he had before him a letter given him in person by former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly, reminding that Massachusetts citizens voted 8 to 3 for a state-supervised lottery, the proceeds to be used for increased allotments to the aged.

"The people of Massachusetts," Kelly wrote, "will not object to money expended honestly and impartially for defense of our state and nation.

"Rather than increase our taxpayers' debt, you should possess the courage to carry out, as I have so often urged you, the instructions of the voters who re-elected you governor in November, 1940, and who, on the very same day by referendum, by a majority of 8 to 3, instructed the present elected state officials to vote to establish a state-supervised lottery.

"You, as governor, will be held accountable by the people of Massachusetts this coming November election day if you fail to comply with their instructions relative to a state-supervised lottery."

COURT-MARTIAL ASKED FOR KIMMEL AND SHORT

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (INS)—The report of the Pearl Harbor board today resulted in demands for the court-martial of Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Lieut.-Gen. Short, for an additional inqury to determine how much blame the War and Navy Departments should share, and for the establishment of a unified command to prevent a recurrence of the Dec. 7 holocaust which plunged the nation into war.

Although the report of the board headed by Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts fixed the responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster solely on the two top commanders in the Hawaiian area, Kimmel and Short, some senators are taking the position it did not go far enough.

While members of Congress appeared mainly concerned with making sure the blame reached every responsible quarter, military experts expressed conviction the board's emphasis on the failure of Kimmel and Short to co-operate, again opens the entire question of a closer co-ordination of naval and military effort under a compact, single command.

COURT-MARTIAL UP TO F. D.

Whether Kimmel and Short will be court-martialed for the "dereliction of duty" with which the board charged them is a matter entirely in the hands of President Roosevelt.

The requests that the inquiry extend further into the War and Navy Departments came from Chairman Walsh of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, Sen. Brooks (R.) of Illinois, and Sen. LaFollette (P.) of Wisconsin.

Although the board's report specifically absolved Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox from blame and credited them with forecasting the Dec. 7 event, these senators demanded a determination be made why the two cabinet officers had not made sure that proper defenses of Pearl Harbor were in operation.

While some members of Congress asserted Kimmel and Short should either be court-martialed or dismissed, or both, the general sentiment favored leaving this decision to Mr. Roosevelt.

DEMANDS HOUSE-CLEANING

A member of the House Military Affairs Committee, Rep. Dewey Short (R.) of Missouri demanded a "general house-cleaning of the incompetents" and said those at fault "should not only be relieved of their commands, they should be court-martialed."

Senator Walsh asked for particulars on the general naval policy between Jan. 1, 1941, and the December attack on Hawaii. Walsh speculated that vital units of the Pacific fleet were diverted to the Atlantic, despite a warning by Secretary Knox on Jan. 24, that the possibility of a surprise Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor warranted immediate increase of land, sea and air forces at that vital base.

This Knox warning was cited in the Roberts report. Writing to Secretary Stimson, Knox said:

"If war eventuates with Japan, it is believed easily possible that hostilities would be initiated by a surprise attack upon the fleet or naval base at Pearl Harbor."

Knox added, in his letter, that the "inherent possibilities of a major disaster" justified speedy action to "increase the joint readiness of the Army and Navy to withstand a raid of the character mentioned."

WALSH WOULD PRESS PROBE

Walsh, calling attention to the "apprehensions" of Knox and Stimson, asked:

"First what steps were taken to increase and strengthen the Army, the Navy and the air force at Hawaii and in the Pacific after January, 1941.

"Second, is it a fact that the opposite course was taken and ships were actually moved from the Pacific to the Atlantic and that practically no increases were made in the Army and air corps defense?"

The Roberts board, in charging Admiral Kimmel and General Short with "dereliction of duty" at Hawaii, summed up the Pearl Harbor situation of Dec. 7, thusly:

"There were deficiencies in personnel, weapons, equipment and facilities to maintain all the defense on a war footing for extended periods of time, but these deficiencies should not have affected the decision of the responsible commanders as to the state of readiness to be prescribed."

Price Control Bill Up for Final Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Congressional leaders were optimistic of winning final action on price control legislation today after a strenuous six months' struggle.

Both Houses arranged during the day to take up a conference report on the wartime price curbing bill, with Administration lieutenants confident that before nightfall it would be in the hands of President Roosevelt. The President first asked for such legislation last July 30.

Leaders were faced, however, with a determined Republican move, led by Rep. Wolcott of Michigan, to shuttle the much-modified measure back to a joint conference committee for overhauling of some of its provisions.

PLAN THREE-HOUR DEBATE

Wolcott wanted to eliminate a Senate-approved provision setting up a licensing system by which price control orders would be enforced on business. He also wanted retained a House-approved provision, thrown out by the conferees, establishing a five-member board to review the proposed price administrator's orders.

Despite the maneuver, House leaders counted on approval of the conference report after three hours of debate—which would send it to the Senate where farm bloc members were expected to bemoan elimination of some of the special provisions governing farm product prices.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky predicted speedy approval, however, and turned his attention to another pressing problem presented by a Democratic attack on a provision of a pending war powers bill which would exempt dollar-a-year men and others serving without pay from the provisions of the Hatch anti-politics act.

TO CHANGE NICKEL

Sen. Truman (D.) of Missouri, chairman of the Defense Investigating Committee told reporters he could see no reason why the Hatch law should not bar dollar-a-year men from taking active part in politics just as it does other federal employes.

On the other hand, Barkley said the provision was necessary to keep from penalizing patriotic citizens serving as air raid wardens, on selective service boards, and in dozens of other activities.

The war powers measure also would authorize coinage of a new five cent piece, half nickel and half copper. It would put enforcement teeth in the proprieties law and give the war production board power to audit the books of defense contractors. Several other minor powers would be included.

FALL RIVER MILL STRIKE ENDS

FALL RIVER, Jan. 26—More than 2500 idle textile workers went back to work at the Berkshire Fine Spinning plant today after settlement of an odd labor controversy between an independent union and the CIO.

The 2500 were thrown out of work when 200 members of the American Federation of Textile Operators, including knot-tiers, walked out in an argument over the employment of a single knot-tier.

And now under a new agreement all have returned to work with the stipulation that the CIO member is not to go back, although the union is to pay him $35 a week while he is idle.

Meanwhile, they will petition the National Labor Relations Board to hold a craft election at the plant. If they win, the CIO member is not only still out of a job but loses his $35 a week.

Four weeks ago the National Labor Relations Board sanctioned an election which was won by the CIO. This entitles that organization to make a two-year contract with the employers. The plant is engaged in defense work.

New Taxes Coming To Raise 9 Billions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—A month's intensive study has convinced most Congressional fiscal experts that the bulk of a proposed $9,000,000,000 addition to federal revenues will have to be raised by some new form of taxation, Chairman George (D.) of Georgia, of the Senate Finance committee said today.

"The great problem," he declared, "is to determine whether this should be a sales tax, a withholding tax on payrolls or some other system. There has been no definite decision made on that point."

HEARINGS IN THREE WEEKS

He believed three more weeks of work would be necessary before definite recommendations could be agreed upon and presented to the House Ways and Means Committee, which then will start public hearings on the new tax measure.

The chief problem now, George said, was to find a form of new taxation which would yield a substantial share of the $7,000,000,000 in general taxes called for in President Roosevelt's budget. Consideration will be given later to a proposed $2,000,000,000 addition to Social Security revenues.

"We have found," George said, that we can't depend on the individual and corporation income tax to yield the major share of the additional levies. We are going to have to get a substantial part of them from some form of taxation which the federal government is not now trying."

The Senate committee chairman said there were obvious difficulties to be faced in an attempt to drain off more revenues from business concerns, particularly since the revenue of a great many of these firms already had been reduced by the loss of materials through priorities.

SMALL FIRMS CRIPPLED

"Many of the smaller corporations, and some of the large ones as well, are going to be badly crippled by this war program," he said. "Not all of them can be converted to war work and many of them are going to have to be shut down."

He said there was room for the imposition of a "supertax" on war profits made by those industries holding direct or indirect contracts with the government. While this might raise a substantial amount of revenue, he predicted that it would be offset in part by the loss of revenues from corporations which did not obtain such contracts.

George said recently that he was opposed to any reduction in the present personal exemptions on individual incomes, now set at $750 for single persons and $1500 for married couples. He said then, however, that increases in both individual and corporation rates were almost certain to be made.

REDS IN U. S. KEY OFFICES STIR CONGRESS

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

Special to the Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—There is no use minimizing the fact that there is a growing concern in Congress over the increasing infiltration of Communist-front radicals in the government service in Washington.

The record of exposures of men and women of this type is now formidable. Chairman Dies, of the special committee which has been investigating un-American activities in this country, has laid a shocking condition before the Congress.

Unfortunately, however, the country as a whole remains apathetic, though Congress is much more aware of the peril to American institutions than its own actions reveal.

It is not too much to say that there are many thoughtful men in Congress who believe a Communist attempt to take over the government after the war, and alter it according to the theories of Lenin and Trotsky, rather than those of Washington and Jefferson, is already well under way.

BAR PAYMENT

The action of the House last week in putting a provision into an appropriation bill prohibiting the payment of any salary to Dr. Goodwin Watson, the recently-appointed chief analyst of the foreign broadcast monitoring section of the Federal Communications Commission, clearly discloses the apprehension in the congressional mind.

The House appropriations committee went thoroughly into Dr. Watson's affiliations with Communist-front organizations and his sympathies with left-wing radicalism. It was not charged that Dr. Watson is, himself, a Communist.

But Congress has been well educated by the revelations of the Dies Committee, and there is a good understanding at the Capitol of just how insidious this radicalism really is.

Dr. Watson has been placed in a position of great importance in the bureaucratic set-up which virtually has the power of life and death over all American communications, including radio.

GRAB KEY SPOTS

This is precisely the sort of key position in which men and women of left-wing tendencies can find opportunity for the advancement of their own theories of government.

Congress is reluctant to deal with a general abuse or menace by specific action in individual cases. Admittedly this is poor parliamentary procedure.

But the denial of all payment of salary to a specifically named individual is the only sure method of dealing with the Communist infiltration in Washington.

Surprise Alert Finds Hub Harbor Defenses on Job

As the result of a successful surprise test, Boston Harbor defense posts were pronounced on the alert today and ready to battle any surprise attack.

Army officials praised the quick action, carried out precisely and calmly, at the various island forts when "alert" signals sounded without warning on the quiet Sunday afternoon. Men assigned as air raid spotters were ready when the first siren sounded.

Instantly the alarm was flashed to many forts, island and mainland posts alike, which form an impressive defense around Boston Harbor. Personnel leaped to battle stations.

Ammunition crews already were lining up to run supplies to the guns, while batteries were ready to blast any hostile plane or ship.

Brig.-Gen. Kenneth T. Blood, in charge of the test, said that all the forts in the area responded to the alarm like a single unit. Had a real invader appeared, he said, the enemy would have been given a hot reception.

New Air Recruit Office Opens

With hundreds of young men seeking air corps posts, the Army today announced opening of a cadet headquarters at the South Armory in Irvington st., Back Bay, to speed examinations. The announcement was made by Lt. Col. John L. Rice.

It is now possible for the first time for youths of 18 to be commissioned, the new age limits having been set at 18 to 26.

Instead of accepting only those with college training, officials now give applicants special intelligence and aptitude tests designed to determine the candidate's ability to learn flying and assume commands.

As in the past, an aviation cadet receives $75 a month during training in addition to food, lodging, clothing, medical and dental care, as well as a $10,000 life insurance policy. After 35 weeks of training, he goes on active duty at $245.50 a month, with a $500 bonus for every year of active duty.

Good Housekeeping Announces

the Results of Its Research on

Vitamins and Gray Hair

88 per cent of the gray-haired men and women tested by GOOD HOUSEKEEPING Laboratories show evidence of the return of natural hair color after months of scientific tests

CAN GRAY HAIR BE ELIMINATED? Preliminary research by Good Housekeeping Bureau seems to say "Yes!" A whole new vista begins to open up which indicates that this new vitamin discovery may be revolutionary.

The facts, as so far determined, are reported for you in the February issue of Good Housekeeping. In an authoritative article, you will find out what the vitamin is—how it was administered to Good Housekeeping's subjects—what it did—and how long it took the subjects to react. The article makes significant reading for every person in America, young or old.

Age Not a Factor

It reports not theory, but facts! For example, of 25 men and women completing the tests with calcium pantothenate, an "anti-gray-hair" vitamin, 22 showed positive evidence of a return of natural hair color. Age did not affect results! The quickest favorable reaction occurred in a man of 50; the slowest in a girl of 23.

These and other findings should not be regarded as final, Good Housekeeping says. Nor should people expect to treat themselves, without the advice and supervision of a physician, even when the vitamin comes out of the experimental stage. These new revolutionary tests have been going on in the Laboratories of Good Housekeeping Bureau since November 1940. They will continue to go on.

The first positive results, on rats, were reported in the September, 1941, issue of Good Housekeeping. Now, in the February issue, results are reported up to December, 1941, on experiments with men and women.

A Continuing Report

As more complete results become available, they, too, will be reported first by Good Housekeeping.

Only Good Housekeeping could bring you this story, because only Good Housekeeping—among all magazines—possesses the research facilities to make such a test under proper scientific control. Don't miss the current report, "Can Vitamins Change Gray Hair?"—page 64.

They said to this Girl,

"You'll have to give up your baby"

Here is a novel about a woman whose name was on everybody's lips from Coast to Coast. It is, we believe, the finest two-part novel ever published in a national magazine.

"Neda Marsh" was the name by which this girl was known to six million people. And once you start reading about her—once you begin to glimpse the story behind the story that everybody knew—you won't know how to stop. We will envy you this month, wherever you are, if for the first time you are reading—

TROUBLE WITH QUINT'S LEG NOT SERIOUS

NORTH BAY, Ont., Jan. 26 (INS)—There is nothing "seriously wrong" with Marie, frailest of the Dionne quintuplets, specialists from Toronto and Montreal who examined the child have decided.

The specialists, Dr. John Laing McDonald, orthopedic expert of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, and Dr. R. X. Amyot of Montreal, spent two hours examining Marie.

The consultation was called as a result of an examination of the child made recently by Dr. I. Joyal of North Bay, which gave rise to fears that she might be a victim of muscular atrophy of the leg.

Also attending today's conference were Dr. Joyal, Dr. Allen Roy Dafoe and Oliva Dionne, father of the famed girls, now seven years old.

NEVER AS STRONG

Following the consultation, neither of the specialists nor Dr Dafoe would make a statement, but Dr. Joyal said:

"The specialists have not given in their report. But the examination showed that there is no organic lesion."

Asked whether there was any evidence of muscle atrophy Dr. Joyal merely repeated that "there is no definite report."

It is believed a detailed report will be made to Premier Mitchell Hepburn, on whose instructions the consultation was held.

The medical men gave Marie's leg a most thorough examination. Dr. Dafoe advised them that Marie has never been as adept in games and at play as her sisters. In fact from the day she was born, when she weighed about 26 ounces, she hasn't been as strong or as vigorous as the others.

OTHERS ENVIOUS

Cecile, Yvonne, Emilie and Annette were tremendously interested in the attention Marie was getting from the visitors. In fact, they were downright envious, and when they were asked to take off their shoes and stockings and line-up with Marie so their pedal extremities could be compared they were only too happy. After all, why should Marie get all the attention?

Recent impressions taken of the quints' teeth have shown that their mouths are identical. Even experts cannot tell them apart. Whether this similarity extends to their legs and feet was not divulged.

UNITED WAR FUND CAMPAIGN RUNNING AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

With more than 30,000 volunteer workers in the field, partial reports of collections in the $7,600,000 Greater Boston United War Fund campaign today showed contributions running well ahead of last year.

So it was announced by leaders prior to the first report luncheon scheduled at noon today at Boston City Club.

In honor of the men in the service, the first luncheon—to be held on the same "Dutch Treat" basis as in other years—has been named Soldiers' and Sailors' Day.

Included among a brilliant array of speaking talent will be Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford of Middlesex County, representing the USO, and Ernest A. Johnson, chairman of the local Soldiers' and Sailors' committee.

Meanwhile, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders sent out a ringing challenge by radio in supporting Maynard Hutchinson, general chairman of the fund.

LAUDED BY FR. AHERN

"I cannot conceive of any appeal that has ever been made to the citizens of Greater Boston," Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J., declared, "that surpasses this appeal in its demand on our purse strings, our heart strings or our love for our fellow-man.

"Greater Boston," he said, "has given an example of unity in the amalgamation of the four relief and service agencies into the United War Fund campaign to raise $7,600,000 during the three weeks which began last Thursday.

"That's a lot of money, but the family of the Greater Boston community needs a lot of help.

"First of all, there are the 215 service organizations giving all manner of help, mental, moral, medical, physical and social, to hundreds of thousands of cases. There is the Red Cross, which must raise its quota of $50,000,000 called for by the President. There is the local Soldiers and Sailors' Committee and the United Service Organization which lend hospitable aid to men in the service who may be on leave or quartered in our community."

NAME WELL CHOSEN

Rabbi Herman H. Rabinovitz in his address declared the name "United War Fund" well chosen as making clear that the home front is engaged in a battle against misery, want, crime and disease:

"While our brave boys are giving their all to protect our lands, our liberties and American civilization, we at home must do all in our power to make America worthy of that sacrifice by maintaining a standard of living which shall be clean and wholesome, decent and neighborly."

Rev. Phillips Endecott Osgood, L. H. D., warned against thinking the fight is all "over there."

"Our real enemy is false philosophy, selfish indifference or devil-take-the-hindmost attitude toward those thrust into the shadow. A democracy is a team-play of real caring. There is a home front as well as a military front. This Greater Boston United War Fund is our first real test of the emergency."

62D BIRTHDAY SCRAPPY ONE FOR M'ARTHUR

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the jaunty beau sabreur of an already historic Philippines campaign, celebrated his 62nd birthday today in the thick of the fighting on a crucial war front.

His personality, martial spirit and record as a soldier make it evident that he would prefer no finer setting for the occasion.

MacArthur and his indomitable little Army of American and Filipino troops made the birthday anniversary a doubly auspicious event by registering a spectacular victory yesterday in a counter-attack which shattered the lines of a heavily superior enemy.

CALLED BRILLIANT

The official communique's reference to the operation as a "brilliant maneuver" testified to the admiration felt by official Washington and the nation for his last ditch fight in the Philippines.

Personal friends among Army officers assumed as a matter of course that the anniversary found MacArthur at field headquarters on the embattled Batan Peninsula actively directing the continuing struggle.

They dismissed the notion that a man of the general's mettle could be persuaded to direct the fight from the relative security of Ft. Mills, on Corregidor Island.

However, the general's wife and his young son, Arthur, were believed to be on Corregidor. Although the wives and families of most service personnel were evacuated from the islands before the war's outbreak, Mrs. MacArthur stayed behind with her husband.

Mrs. D. MacArthur Gen. MacArthur

CITED FOR COURAGE

The battle now raging in the Philippines is probably the severest MacArthur has ever faced. Under less critical circumstances he was decorated several times in the first World War for "great courage" and "conspicuous courage" under fire in France as a brigade commander of the 42d or Rainbow Division.

At 62 MacArthur, a story book soldier at the climax of a virtual second military career, lacks but two years of the Army's normal mandatory retirement age but has probably never been referred to as an elderly officer or charged with lacking in vigor.

At 50 he was the youngest chief of staff in the Army's history, and retains a reputation for youthful energy and initiative, as well as for brilliance as a field commander.

Attacks on Jap Fleet Hint Big Scale Drive

By MAJ. GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

The battle in the Macassar Strait is developing into what seems to be a large scale operation against a big Japanese troop convoy, with the Japanese on the losing end.

RETIRES—After 54 years of continuous service with the jewelry firm of A. Stowell Co., Harry Gray Otis Bailey of Medford retired today. He was presented with a clock by fellow employes and a purse by the management.

vaders to the north bank of the Mersing river, 65 miles from Singapore.

The communique added that early this morning a Japanese convoy consisting of two merchant ships and several warships was sighted off Endau, on the east coast of the peninsula, 85 miles from here. Endau previously had been reported evacuated by the British.

It was not immediately clear whether the appearance of the convoy indicated an attempt by the Japanese to turn the British flank by a landing behind the lines.

The communique said that a Sikh battalion had inflicted at least 400 casualties on the Japanese in heavy fighting Saturday at Kluang, on the central front 50 miles from Singapore. Sikh casualties were said to be light.

The same battalion also ambushed and routed about 200 Japanese cyclists yesterday, killing about 60, the bulletin declared.

British aircraft, which have been reported lending increasing support to the ground forces, carried out a number of attacks on Japanese positions during the night, headquarters said.

Severe damage was reported done to military objectives at Batu Pahat and to the airdrome at Kuala Lumpur in central Malaya.

ATTACKS ON SHIPPING

Attacks also were made, the communique said, on shipping at the mouth of the Muar river some 90 miles northwest of Singapore, where one 600-ton vessel was left listing and fires were started among docks.

All British planes were said to have returned safely from these raids and from attacks on Japanese columns moving along roads on the Muar and Batu Pahat sectors.

Friday the Dutch air force probably operating from the scattered air fields in the interior of Borneo, attacked and sank or damaged a Japanese battleship, two cruisers and five other vessels. A destroyer and two transports, including a large passenger liner which capsized, was smashed by the Dutch, and Saturday two transports were sunk by United States destroyers, besides a third left in sinking condition, and other ships including Japanese destroyers damaged.

SINK FIVE MORE

Today the Navy Department revealed new action in which cruisers—this is the first engagement of American cruisers and destroyers of the Asiatic fleet—have sunk five Japanese transports and probably a sixth, while the Dutch air force bombed two more cruisers and probably a transport, according to reports from Batavia.

The battle seems to be extending in time and space and there is no escaping the fact that this is a much bigger affair than would be explained by the Japanese landing at Balik Papan and in Celebes, reported yesterday. The Japanese may be trying for a landing in Macassar, the principal city of Celebes, at the southwestern corner of that island, or they may be heading for Banjermasin, which is the administrative capital of Dutch Borneo, farther down the coast from Balik Papan.

JAVA SEEN GOAL

A direct attack upon Java itself seems highly within the scope of immediate possibilities although the Japanese boldness has always exceeded what we thought in previous days would be impossible.

It is clear, however, that the Japanese have suffered heavily in these operations. This is partly explained by the fact that they are coming closer to the main Allied bases and getting farther away from their own; and partly by the fact that unquestionably the Allies have received considerable air reenforcements. If the latter condition continues, as it seems likely to do, the time can not be far distant when the Japanese will begin to lose ground, and the Allies will begin to drive them from their advanced positions.

In Russia the Red army appears to have scored another notable success. Apparently they have broken through a gap in the Valdhi region, between the German armies and the Leningrad area and the central German armies falling back on the Moscow front. They have by-passed the important railway town of Rohjev, where the German garrison is surrounded.

The Russian advance in the meanwhile has reached Kolm, Torapet and Nelidovo. Thus they are approaching the vital north-south Leningrad-Kiev railway, which is the main German lateral line of communication. Should this line be cut a major German withdrawal in the Leningrad area would be essential to save the main German armies there from engulfment.

Meanwhile, fresh Russian advances in the areas of Orel and Kuask are menacing Smolensk from the southeast.

counteroffensive, fighting on the peninsula has been confined to "relatively unimportant skirmishes on the west coast in the vicinity of Subic bay."

CEBU HEAVILY BOMBED

New reports to the War Department disclosed that the city of Cebu on Cebu island in the Philippine archipelago, was attacked by 18 enemy bombers Jan. 21. One small boat was sunk in Cebu harbor.

The department also stated that the large Japanese tanker set afire by American bombers Jan. 20 off Jolo ultimately sank.

The surprise blow yesterday by American and Filipino troops relieved pressure temporarily on MacArthur's left flank, but military experts expressed concern over reports that the comparatively small defending army faced new Japanese attacks after suffering "considerable losses in the latest engagement."

Berlin Claims Air Hits at Sea

BERLIN, Jan. 26 (Official broadcast recorded by AP)—German bombers intercepted British naval units in the Mediterranean north of Tobruk and scored direct hits on a light cruiser, the German high command announced today.

The high command also said bombers seriously damaged a large ship west of Pembroke, England.

Other night air attacks were directed against a harbor in southwest England, the communique said.

42 Off Torpedoed Norse Ship Saved

Inlet Coast Guard Station, seven of the crew were treated for exposure and injuries received in getting off their doomed ship.

Fourth Naval District headquarters at Philadelphia said apparently two enemy undersea craft engaged in the attack but added this was not confirmed.

Dr. Alexander Stuart of Sea Isle City, who treated the injured, said practically all of the crew members reported having seen three submarines in the vicinity of the ship before the first torpedo struck.

SIXTH SHIP SUNK IN 12 DAYS

The Varanger was the sixth vessel officially reported sunk by submarines in Atlantic coast waters of the United States within the last 12 days. A seventh, shelled and damaged, reached port.

It was the second Norwegian ship sunk by torpedoes in as many days in the Atlantic. Five survivors of a freighter were landed yesterday at an Eastern Canadian port after 14 hours in lifeboats.

The explosion of the first torpedo took from the ship the only means of replying to the attack—a four-inch gun. The blast also knocked overboard the radio room.

Seven minutes later, the second torpedo struck and the third followed five minutes later. The ship went down immediately after the third blow. An internal explosion shook the ship before she sank, crew members said.

DOG MASCOT LOST

A Navy spokesman said the crew included two naturalized Americans, but they were not identified immediately.

Dr. Stuart said the ship's captain, Karl Horne, of Philadelphia, said the ship was owned by the Norwegian Shipping and Trade Mission of New York City. The Varanger, built at Amsterdam in 1925, was 470 feet long and 50 feet wide.

The only casualty was one of two dachshund mascots. The other dog was carried ashore by a seaman.

Jap Bases At Bangkok, Hanoi Raked

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 26 (AP)—Airmen of the united nations dumped tons of explosives on Japanese bases at Bangkok and Hanoi during the week-end while Chinese troops massed in great numbers for possible action against Japanese-occupied Thailand and French Indo-China.

While the Chinese army in Burma was said to be expanding into a major force and the Chinese also maneuvered large bodies of troops along the Thai and Indo-Chinese borders, the British announced an "unimpeded" withdrawal in the Moulmein section, 100 miles east of Rangoon.

BOMB POWERHOUSE

The RAF flew at a low level in the face of strong anti-aircraft fire during the smash at Bangkok Saturday night, dropping 500-pound demolition bombs on a powerhouse and other tarkets. Damage was reported widespread.

An RAF communique said the Bangkok dock and commercial center also were attacked and large fires which could be seen 70 miles away were started.

More than 70 bombers and fighters of the Chinese Air Force, with American volunteers presumably participating, made their second assault in three days on Hanoi, French Indo-China, one of Japan's main bases.

SPRAY JAP AIR BASE

The air armada sprayed the Japanese air base with 200 bombs and left the field in flames, Chinese reports said.

The Chinese also reported a land victory over the Japanese. A Chungking communique said Chinese forces recaptured Tamshui, 20 miles north of Japanese-captured Hongkong and east of the Canton-Kowloon railway. The Chinese were said to be pushing the Japanese from Tamshui southward toward Kowloon.

The announcement said the Japanese lost 56 planes, with 18 others considered probably destroyed, in daylight raids over Rangoon and Mingaladon, near Rangoon.

Thirty-one Japanese planes were definitely destroyed, three more probably destroyed and nine seriously damaged in Allied attacks on Japanese-occupied territory and in air combats over Burma and the Thai frontier.

The total Allied losses were put at nine planes.

Thai Planes Join In Singapore Raid

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Thai warplanes were sighted yesterday alongside Japanese aircraft in a raid on Singapore shortly after Thailand declared war on Britain and the United States, the Sydney radio said today in a broadcast heard by NBC.

cruiser sank as a result of this hit," the communique said.

The war bulletin acknowledged loss of a Dutch bomber in yesterday's attack on Japanese ships off Balip Papan, Dutch Borneo port, in which bomb hits were reported scored on two cruisers and a transport.

JAPS GAIN OIL BASE

The next few days will tell in what strength if any the Japanese armada was able to negotiate the narrow shortcut to the inner arc of the Netherlands Indies.

The Japanese, however, won at least one foothold on this sea road to Java—the oil port of Balik Papan, but the size of the invasion fleet indicated Tokyo was shooting for higher stakes.

The Strait of Macassar is the most direct route between Japanese concentration points in the Philippines and the rich island of Java on which the United Nations have centered their supreme command and much of their armed strength.

Soerabaja, the great Dutch naval base, for example, lies less than 350 miles southwest of the southern mouth of the strait.

AMERICAN BOMBERS SAFE

In Washington the War Department reported that seven American bombers participated in the attack on the Macassar Straits convoy. Sinking of an enemy transport and the firing of another was confirmed. Five enemy planes were shot down and all American planes returned to their base undamaged.

The battle in Macassar straits, as the communique recounted it, developed in this way:

Friday—Dutch heavy bombers and dive bomber fighters pounced on strong force of Japanese warships and transports, scoring a dozen direct, crippling hits on eight enemy ships.

U. S. destroyers followed up with smashing night attack, using both torpedoes and guns to score numerous hits. One large enemy ship was blown out of the water, another was sunk and a third left listing heavily.

Saturday—Dutch and U. S. Army bombers return to the assault with notable success. They get credit for two known sinkings, the severe damaging of two more enemy vessels and a direct hit on a Jap destroyer.

Sunday—U. S. cruisers and destroyers again hammer the enemy invasion fleet, sending five more Jap transports to the bottom and claiming the probable sinking of a sixth.

Although only two probable sinkings and 11 damaged ships are apparent in this detailed account, the Allied supreme command made the "conservative" estimate that the sinkings numbered more.

ESCAPE UNSCATHED

One amazing feature of the first 72 hours of the running battle in storied seas was that the American and Dutch attackers came off virtually unscathed. Only one warship sustained slight damage, and no air losses were reported.

For the first time since the war's outbreak a Japanese force of important size was caught without the previous advantage of air superiority, and suffered devastatingly for the error.

The enemy was not completely without air support—one communique told of five out of 12 Jap fighters being shot down in an unsuccessful attack on a formation of U. S. Army flying fortresses—but the forces operating from Japanese-held airdromes in northern Borneo and northeast Celebes evidently were inadequate to challenge the American-Dutch team effectively.

USE JUNGLE BASE

The U. S. and Netherlands bombers and fighters were believed to be operating from the secret jungle flying fields which the Dutch have prepared in Borneo, Java and perhaps in the Celebes.

There was some speculation that the Allies had purposely permitted the enemy convoy to proceed unmolested until it had reached the position in the strait where it could be cut off and ambushed.

It was noted the Allies were using a one-two punch method in their attack strategy—first a smash from the air, then a smash from warships of the Asiatic fleet. Bad visibility has existed during some periods of the engagement reports indicate, enabling both bombers and warships to strike with added surprise.

The poor visibility has interfered with full observation of the results scored by the attacks, but apparently has afforded scant protection to the convoy, which presents a large target because of its size.

The length of time the enemy fleet has been engaged in the comparatively short Macassar strait led some observers here to consider the optimistic possibility that the Dutch-American forces have been successful in blocking its retreat and are now systematically cutting it to pieces.

TIDES OF WAR—Although Japanese announce landing at (1) Balikpapan, United Nations' official report tells of some 27 Japanese transports and warships being bagged in the (2) strait of Macassar during four days of fighting.

NEW NAZI GAIN IN LIBYA ADMITTED BY BRITISH

CAIRO, Jan. 26 (AP)—The British acknowledged today they had been driven still farther back in Libya by Gen. Erwin Rommel's counterattacking armored columns, and the Axis forces apparently were aiming to by-pass Bengasi in a major comeback against Britain's 8th army.

The new center of the desert battle, placed by the communique north and northeast of Zouiet Msus, meant that Rommel had advanced more than 40 miles from the Agedabia-Antelat-Saunnu triangle where a big tank battle raged over the week-end.

Zouiet Msus is only 70 miles southeast of Bengasi, inland on the hump of Cirenaica, and fighting in that region means the British have been shoved back about 145 miles around the Gulf of Sirte from the highwater mark of their drive at El Agheila.

(The Italian communique, broadcast from Rome, said the British lost 38 guns, 97 armored cars and tanks many of which were American-made, and large supplies of war materials and ammunition in the tank fighting yesterday.)

The Axis' gains were partly offset, however, by news the British air force had dealt smashing blows to a heavily escorted Axis convoy apparently bearing reinforcements to North Africa.

An RAF communique said bombers and torpedo-carrying planes severely damaged and probably sank a 20,000-ton liner, set another transport afire and crippled a destroyer.

Bomb hits were claimed on another warship, believed to be a cruiser, and possibly on several other vessels.

The convoy, which included three large merchantmen in addition to the liner, was protected by a battleship, four cruisers and 15 destroyers, it was announced.

The RAF said several bombs were dropped close to the battleship and several torpedoes were launched at her sides, but the effects were uncertain.

The attack on the convoy, in the central Mediterranean, was begun Friday and continued more than 24 hours, the communique said. In the first assault one torpedo hit the liner amidships and another struck the stern of a destroyer, causing a violent explosion, it said.

Bombers later scored two direct hits on the liner, causing violent explosions. When the convoy was last sighted Saturday, steaming east at reduced speed, the liner was nowhere to be seen.

Fuehrer Defies God, Would Displace Him

startling a statement as the fact that Poland fell in two weeks; Holland, Belgium and France in less than two months.

"As nations perish, as liberty is throttled, as the Swastika sweeps on, we are gradually awakening from our smug complacency of yesterday.

"Can Christianity and Nazism co-exist. The answer is a categorical 'NO.'

"Can the Cross of Christ survive in Europe alongside the Swastika, which his late Holiness, Pope Pius XI, stigmitized as 'the cross that is not the Cross of Christ'?"

Three points Father Feely establishes in his frank and dramatic denunciation of Nazism:

"That Christianity cannot function in a totalitarian State, especially under so ghastly efficient a State as the Third Reich.

"That Nazism is systematically seeking to liquidate Christianity in the Third Reich.

"That Nazism is in itself a false and pagan religion, and therefore is, of its very essence, destructive of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish religions."

I SHALL have more to say later in connection with Father Feely's remarkable exposition of the menace of Nazism to Christians and Jews alike. I have seen with tragic clarity the methods by which the Nazis seek to destroy the soul.

I write of what I know. As a German Catholic wife I saw my husband doomed to prison because of his faith. As a German mother I saw my son lose his freedom in the same cause.

I saw my friend and one-time neighbor, the brave Pastor Nelmoeller, undergo humiliations which could not break his spirit nor bend his will in his valiant defense of Protestantism. I have seen Jews tortured and slain because of their belief.

Hitler was born and baptized a Catholic and now persecutes Catholics with unrelenting fury. Hitler, obsessed since childhood with an abnormal fear that he was of Jewish blood, directs against Jews his venemous hatred.

The Fuehrer believes only in himself, in his mission, in his dream of divinity. This belief, and this alone, he imposes upon his subjects and seeks to impose upon all mankind.

From years of observation in Germany, I can state truly that the Fuehrer's fanatical hatred of religion is a disease of his disordered mind—a disease which has infected his nation and many of his people.

First to feel his fury were the priests, the ministers and the rabbis of Germany. Churches and synagogues were destroyed, or taken over for purpose of state. Religious orders, religious schools, were victims of the first Nazi persecution.

But far more subtle than this direct persecution was the program by which Hitler and his Nazi henchmen sought to strike at the very foundations of religion—through alienation of the youth of Germany from all religious training.

Hitler, rising to power, discovered that his greatest rival was religion.

Hitler, in his egomania, determined to strike out God from the hearts and the souls of the German people.

(How did Hitler launch his program of godlessness? Read of his methods in tomorrow's Boston American.)

The town's former war memorial building has been renovated and enlarged at a cost of $30,000. It is expected to be ready for use in about two weeks.

Flag Is Presented To W. Roxbury Church

Mayor Tobin, city officials and members of veteran organizations were included among those who thronged the Church of the Holy Name, Center st., West Roxbury, at ceremonies that marked presentation of an American flag.

The flag was the gift to the parish of John J. Fahey, chaplain of the West Roxbury Post, given in memory of his wife, Elizabeth Barry Fahey, who died Sept. 15, 1941.

Milton Man Held In Hit-Run Death

A Milton man was held for questioning today in the hit-and-run death of Sarah D. McKissick, 78, of Reedsville rd., Milton, found by the roadside by her home.

According to police, he surrendered and said that he had stopped his machine after striking the woman but then became panic-stricken and fled.

Baby's Mother Defies Gun, Blocks Holdup

A dark complexioned 30-year-old bandit, whose gun and daring were no match for the mother of a sleeping baby boy, was the object of a police search in Cambridge today after he held up and robbed 11 persons.

His bravado backed up by a nickel-plated revolver, the thug swaggered into the second-floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. John Cook on Vail ct., Cambridge, a short distance from busy Central sq., and demanded that the couple and their guests hand him all their money. He forced the men and women to line up against a wall and toss their money on a handkerchief spread on the floor.

NO "FOLDING MONEY"

Only a few coins were produced, as each person gingerily handed out a few pennies or dimes. Total loot was only $2. The victims included the Cooks' daughter, Hazel, 16; Walter Taylor, 50, who lives with the Cook family; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hiltz of Tarbox st., Dedham; Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLaughlin of Dickinson st., Somerville; Dexter Pratt of Austin st., Cambridge; William Regan, 50, of Hadley st., North Cambridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hiltz of Tarbox st., Dedham.

The gunman demanded "folding money," but was told by Cook that there was none. Unbelieving, the intruder snarled with disgust and started to enter the adjoining bedroom, still menacing his victim with his gun. Harold Holtz, Jr., 18 months old, was asleep in the room.

"Here! Stay out of that room! A baby's asleep in there and I won't let you in!" cried Mrs. Cook.

Her friends gasped fearfully and the gunman registered surprise as the woman stepped in his path.

UNNERVED GUNMAN FLEES

"I've bumped off better people than you for less than that," the bandit threatened.

But Mrs. Cook stood her ground, and the gunman, unnerved, ran from the building. A check-up disclosed that his loss of nerve saved the group many dollars, as the men and women had concealed their purses under coats while Mrs. Cook confronted the bandit.

Sea Giant York On Active Duty

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The 35,000-ton battleship Duke of York, Britain's newest capital ship, carried Prime Minister Churchill to the United States and now is in active service, the admiralty has announced.

Last August Churchill hinted the Duke of York was ready for service when he called the Prince of Wales, later sunk off Malaya, "almost the newest battleship."

She was launched in Clyde about two years ago and was sponsored by Queen Elizabeth.

No mention has been made of the Jellicoe and Beatty, which were laid down in 1937 for completion in 1941, and it is possible they also are at sea.

The new ship bolsters Britain's battleship fleet depleted by the loss of the Prince of Wales, Repulse, Hood and Royal Oak.

Victory Book Drive Shows State Gains

The Victory Book campaign will be continued as long as there are soldiers and sailors who need books and there are people who have them to give, Catharine M. Yerxa, director of the campaign in Massachusetts, decided today.

Although the campaign only started this month, says Miss Yerxa, the Lowell Public Library has collected between 1200 and 1300 books already, and Lowell Boy Scouts have started a drive of their own.

While the militia, mostly bushmen from Victoria, fought a delaying action, the war cabinet ordered immediate full mobilization of working and fighting manpower. All men up to 60 years of age will be required to register. Enrollment of women is expected to follow.

With the Japanese gaining bases within striking distance of the mainland, bomb disposal squads were being formed in Australian cities and steps were taken to extend the present blackout to all coastal communities.

WARNS INVASION NEAR

Army Minister Francis Forde announced civilians were being taken from bombed Madang, in northeastern New Guinea, Tulagi, on Florida Island in the Solomons, and from the east coast New Guinea town of Lae.

The coastal town of Wewak, northwest of Madang, was reported under Japanese aerial attack. Communications with previously bombed Bulolo, however, were re-established.

Reports reaching here indicated the militia still held out in a hard fighting stand in the hills south of Rabaul, at the northern end of New Britain, 400 miles east of Madang.

Japs who landed there were estimated at 10,000, heavily outnumbering defense forces.

Other Jap forces were ashore on New Ireland, after landings near Kavieng.

Reports here said in the northeastern Solomon group the Japs had put troops ashore at Kieta last night, reinforcing a previous landing on Bougainville.

There were unconfirmed reports of other Japanese landings on Buka passage between New Ireland and the Solomons.

Russian front after virtually wiping out Hitler's winter line.

(Hitler himself, a Stockholm report broadcast by the British radio said, has fled westward with his personal headquarters from Smolensk, now endangered by the Russians, to Minsk, capital of White Russia 430 miles west of Moscow.)

Clean-up operations were reported in full swing in the area east of a 270-mile line running from the vicinity of Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow, to Orel and Kursk. There was no information on exactly how far from Smolensk the Russians were.

Russians said the Moscow region and that around Tula, 200 miles south of the capital, were "completely free of Germans" and that the Kalinin sector, 90 miles northwest of Moscow, was being cleared.

The Soviet information bureau's midnight communique announced the Russian recapture of Nelidovo, on the Moscow-Riga railroad 179 miles northwest of Moscow and 50 miles west of Rzhev. Russian-encircled northern anchor of the crushed German front before Moscow.

This advance carries an ultimate threat to the Nazi legions oetween Leningrad and the Latvian border and the northern end of the important Leningrad-Kiev lateral railroad, much used by the Germans.

The Russians also said the Red army had occupied 54 additional populated centers. The Soviet information bureau further reported the liberation of 694 communities on the central front between Jan. 16-22.

The Russians also announced a victory at sea—the sinking of a 5000-ton German transport in the Barents Sea.

In the Donets Basin Russian armies were said to have advanced 12 miles in 20 hours and recaptured 13 villages.

SUNDAY afternoon weddings are becoming more and more popular in these busy days of national defense and long work-away hours . . . and provide more opportunity for masculine friends of the bridal couples to share in the festivities . . .

Yesterday's wedding at which Miss Lester Parker of Brookline became the bride of George Russell Shaw 2d of Concord, was outstanding among the pleasant Sunday affairs of recent months . . .

Daughter of Mrs. Gerard Parker of Brookline, Lester fulfilled the stipulation to wear "something old" and "something borrowed" in the beautiful gown of cream color satin and heirloom lace which she wore for the ceremony . . . It had been her mother's wedding gown, and was also worn by her sister, Annette, at the latter's marriage to Robert Eugene Otto of New York . . . To complete her bridal costume yesterday's bride wore white orchids in her hair to match the orchil markers in her prayer book.

The 4 o'clock ceremony was performed by Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt at Brookline's historic Harvard Church . . . A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother . . .

As matron of honor, Mrs. Otto walked down the aisle in a portrait gown of moss green crepe accented with a small hat of gold leaves, and a bouquet of green and gold orchids . . . The bridesmaids were Mrs. Gideon K. de Forest and Mrs. William Faversham of Concord, sister of the bridegroom; and Miss Elizabeth Picton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. White of Medfield . . .

The bridegroom had his father, T. Mott Shaw of Concord, as best man, and the usher staff was comprised of the Messrs. Francis G. Shaw, Jr., Robert E. Ott, William C. McGuckin, Rama Braggiotti, Edmund Keville, John Wilbor, Henry Woodbridge, Joseph Helling, Dr. Gideon K. de Forest and Dr. George Bartol . . .

Mr. Shaw attended Harvard with the class of 1934 . . . His clubs include Hasty Pudding, Institute of 1770, D. K. E., Fox and the Harvard Club of New York. . . . He is now attending the School of Architecture at M. I. T. . . . His bride, daughter of the late Gerard Lester Parker, is a graduate of Miss McClintock's School and Miss Sacker's . . .

ARMCHAIR TRAVELOGUES, one of winter's favorite pastimes, will be indulged in by many socialite subscribers to Mrs. William Dana Orcutt's Mornings of Diversions on Wednesday at the Hotel Somerset . . . The program will feature Van Wormer Walsh, who will show his beautiful color pictures of "Historic Inns and Gardens of England" . . .

The pictures are especially interesting to Boston garden lovers because they were taken just before England entered the war and many of them have now been stripped of their beauty to fulfill a more economic need for fruits, vegetables and grain . . .

Coffee will be served as usual before the lecture with a group of junior hostesses welcoming the subscribers and dispensing sugar and cream . . . Among them will be Mrs. Henry McBurney Parker, Mrs. W. Arthur Dupee, Mrs. C. Stewart Black, Mrs. Robert Strange, Mrs. George N. Women's City Club Varies Entertainment Program

Believing in the old adage about all work and no play members of the Women's City Club are alternating their serious program of defense activities with a few entertainments which are, in comparison, lighter and more frivolous.

This evening Nicolas Nabokeff will speak before a gathering of club members on "Music and Painting in the Russian Ballet" and tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock Marjorie Parmenter will accompany her talk on "Life on the Mississippi" with a moving picture in color.

Both speakers will be introduced by Mrs. Alexander Steinert, president of the club. Serving for the hospitality committee this evening are Mrs. Samuel M. Lindsay of Brookline and Miss Katherine Clark of Boston. As author of "Union Pacific," stirring ballet of American railroad building, Mr. Nabokeff will center his talk around the three periods of Stravinsky and illustrate his points with records and slides.

Mrs. Parmenter's film will bring to life the locale of "Huckleberry Finn" and "Showboat," showing the Colonial homes and grand old mansions built before the Civil War. Presiding at the coffee table before her talk will be Mrs. Sanford K. Taylor of Cambridge, and Mrs. C. Raymond Hanlon of Brookline.

Hostesses, headed by Mrs. Gratton Kennedy of Watertown, will be Mrs. Nathaniel C. Nash, Jr., Mrs. John T. Norton, Mrs. Ralph Diaz and Mrs. John McKey.

She wore an afternoon gown of gray marquisette with a lace bodice and carried a bouquet of yellow accacia, roses and blue delphinium.

Mrs. Endicott Peabody Saltonstall, the only attendant, wore a gown of teal blue crepe banded in gold, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. Albert E. Lownes of Providence was best man. After the first of February the newlyweds will be at home on Dudley rd., Newton Center.

The newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Robert Augur Deevey, who were married New Year's Eve in Brookline, N. Y., are now at home in Clifton, N. J.

The bride is the former Jane Holbrook, daughter of Mr. Donald Holbrook of Newton. The wedding took place at the Kenilworth Baptist Church, with the bridegroom's uncle, Rev. E. W. Van Aken, officiating.

Listen, World!

FAITH'S POWER

By Elsie Robinson

IN TROUBLE? Some sudden, bitter blow? Lost your job . . . or your reputation . . . or, cruelest of all, the one you loved? And you don't know how you can bear it? For it's so much worse than you thought it would be? You weren't prepared.

Oh, of course, you'd seen plenty of trouble. Seen it come to other people. Tried to imagine how it would feel if it came to you. But you never imagined this! For it isn't just the pain and shock—you expected that. It's something that demoralizes you worse than any pain. It's that feeling that your usefulness is over—that you're out of the game—that the other fellow is holding all the face cards—

And what's the sense of it? That's the thing that bites deepest . . . the futility of it all. If only you could turn your suffering to some account. But you can't. For what's life worth when you're stripped and broken?

I KNOW. I've asked that, too stranger. I've had to look at mothers with living babies—knowing I'd never be a mother any more . . . If anything can smash a life, that will! So I've earned the right to tell you this, straight—Life's still worth plenty to those who have gone through the mill . . . it's worth as much, if not more, than it is to untroubled folk, if you have the grit to go after its values.

Once I read these lovely lines by Whittier:

"For one shall grasp and one resign,
"One drink life's rue and one its wine,
"And God shall make the balance good."

That's true—though it takes most of us many a heartbreak to discover it. And its true, not in a bleak, colorless sense—nor at some distant, heavenly time. It is true, here and now . . . grief can make your life richer, stronger, warmer, as surely as gladness. God can make the balance good.

REMEMBER THIS—He isn't going to hand you all this enrichment automatically, as a consolation prize. People don't get rewarded, by either God or man, just because they've had a run of bad luck. Many of us think we should. We feel that we deserve special exemption and consideration merely because our hearts are broken and should receive at least eight per cent interest on every tear.

But things don't work out that way. Whether you're glad or you're sad, you only win what you work for. You can build as great a life on sadness as you can on gladness—but only if you're willing.

And that willingness is the worst part of the battle. It is hard to put off grief . . . one comes to cling to it like a cloak. But if you're willing to live you're tear-washed eyes for a wider sight, and your pain-ploughed heart for a richer harvest — God will surely make the balance good, my friend.

REPORTS FROM THE NEW ENGLAND FRONT

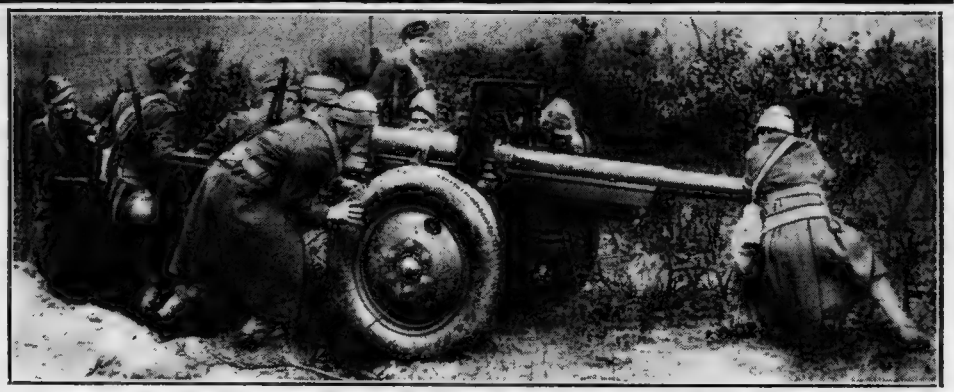
what would happen if an enemy landing party, either small or large, should attempt to invade New England at any hour, the clock around. For along our shore line—every rod between the Canadian border and the limits of Connecticut and beyond to the Everglades of Florida, Army Observations posts (O.P.s) spot the lip of the coast, alert to any suspicious movement at sea, in air, or on land. It's a 24-hour tour of duty in 2-on-and-4-off shifts with inland supports mobile and ready.

This writer, just returned from an exhaustive excursion conducted by representatives of the coastal defense command, saw this network in actual operation. What he writes is not hearsay but eye-witness facts. Let New England, in this formative war period, feel reassured.

O.P.'s in a bead-like string, stretch down the coast for more than a thousand miles, usually in little six-sided sentry boxes with window vision around the full 360 degree angle, eye-sight contact with each other by day and patrolled by foot patrol and armed truck by night. Sometimes, where there is a civilian shack or cottage handy a tandem of sentries are posted there. Sometimes the O.P.'s are anchored on bleak, wind-swept ledges where the sea runs up the cliffs in towers of white spume. Sometimes they are pitched on promontories, half marooned by a watery desert. Or on the edge of some seaside village where hospitable citizens bring kettles of hot stuffs and tidbits.



Artillery Unit of New England's Defense Forces Brings Up Big Field Piece

GOT READY LONG AGO

Long months ago, before actual war, the Coastal Frontier Defense Command spotted these O.P. sites and marked machine gun and artillery emplacements to be dug and sandbagged. Mobile units from the military camps of New England were assigned. Billets in the immediate rear areas of support were allocated—a municipal building, a warehouse, a fire station, a school, a private estate, shacks, summer homes.

There has not been an instance along the entire New England coast where private citizens or municipal authorities have not willingly ceded any building or house that was needed and, in almost all cases, without rentals. Hundreds of such buildings are occupied by the coast defense troops along every mile of shore, billets that are sometimes luxuriously comfortable and sometimes rustically bleak. The people are all co-operative and grateful.

Behind each O.P. on the shoreline, there is a reserve billet of soldiers, where the men rest between taking turns at sentry-go and are subject to instant emergency call. It's a rigidly cloistered life for these youths who have been used to the freedom of maneuvers or of harbor defense training and who, just over a year ago were grocer's clerks, plumber's helpers, students and whatnots in the far flung scheme of peacetime life.

HEART OF ALERT SYSTEM

Behind the reserve billets, are the posts of command, located in townships that sometimes lie miles behind the coast, the battalion or company post of command centered in, perhaps, a town hall. Our Jeep, the all-service wonder car of the Army with its effect of spinal massage, pulled up at a town recreation center in the well-known town of X. Rooms which had so lately housed the local ladies' cultural committee, the Grange, fraternal clubs and various patriotic associations, were occupied by soldiers. Cots covered by regulation mustard-colored blankets were festooned with army gear—the new-type arm-pit gas mask with its patented flutter valve, the modified coal scuttle steel helmet, the eight-shot modern Garand rifle, field harness, ammunition clips, mess gear.

In a basement room a private hunched before a field telephone exchange, a compact, green portable box with fixed connections to his platoon O. P.'s and loops through which he contacts other key elements of his command, supports and higher headquarters.

The soldier, brown-haired and in his early '20's, jotted down memoranda as the stream of messages came through his headphones from coast observers, thusly:

"Cargo boat, about 3000 tons, black hull and yellow superstructure, south bound."

Or ". . . Suspicious prowler carrying black satchel and making peculiar motions. Will investigate."

A number of suspicious-looking persons have been picked up since the beginning of operations and turned over to the FBI for examination. Several, so far as the Command knows, are still held as enemy agents. At least one boat, venturing into restricted waters, has been fired upon after ignoring preliminary warnings. For no itinerant aircraft, no wandering stranger, no passing ship, no floating object passes unnoticed and unreported by these shoreline units, equipped with binoculars, field telephone, arms and emergency data compiled at Battalion HQ and forwarded each day to the Post of General Command for analysis. It makes a complete audit of all coastal action day and night.

THESE BOYS SHOW SPEED

Each patrol platoon has self-contained units of artillery, anti-tank guns, quartermaster, medical and engineer attachments in support, an elastic arrangement by which, in event of an "alert" can be rushed by truck to any indicated spot within a short time. It is a precise, workable arrangement in which commander and men alike know every foot of the local terraine and its narrow wilderness net work of roads.

I had a prideful demonstration of the efficiency of these supports in rushing to meet a simulated assault. The young officer commanding the field artillery unit, billetted in a disused high school building, snapped the buzzer button in his office. "Rrrrr-rr-rrrrr," growled the siren in the hallways, formerly a fire warning for the pupils . . . "Rrrr-rrrrrr-rrrr" in code to designate the invasion locale.

Hobnailed boots rattled through the hallways. Men snapping belt clasps and shrugging into combat harness, galloped downstairs with rifles in hand to the nearby motor park. n 15 seconds the first of them were in their lorry seats. In half a minute the schoolhouse was cleared and the line of camions rolled off on their errand.

There was a labyrinth of rough roads jutting off from the highway, rutted, sandy ribbons that wound through the scrub wilderness to the sea. Near the coast the truck with its "75" trailing rubber tires, bounced over a sandy shoulder and through the thick undergrowth, its canvas cover lurching drunkenly and its gun teetering over rock ledges and pine fires.

On the peak of a high cliff, overlooking a rocky shore, an emplacement with ammunition pits and sandbagged parapets had been prepared, one of thousands along the coast. Farther along there was a canvas-hooded machine gun, behind a rock escapment.

WHILE THE BEEF STEWS

Fifteen minutes after the first growl of the high school buzzer the fieldpiece was in firing position, its sinister snout pointed to sea and its gunnery sergeant estimating the range on an innocent coal barge in the pearly distance. The crew enjoyed the game as the sergeant barked the tentative range, perhaps in fancy watching their first bracket-shot falling short with a fountain-like splash, their second passing over and their third hitting the target with a mushroom of black smoke and flying splinters But now the barge sailed serenly on toward distant thunderheads and under a sky that spread fingers of misty light. Last spring the writer watched such ships steam slowly up the English channel opposite Dover, hazarding the fire of German long range guns from Cap Griz Nez, a scant 22 miles away, or sudden swoops from enemy dive bombers.

A quarter-mile down the cliff-face a sextagonal OP box rested amid its anchoring rocks and two soldiers watched the gun crew with smiling tolerance. Heavy waterproof telephone wire ran from the roof along an improvised line of sticks and trees to the distant message center. This, like its fellow-thousand of OP's was the sentory tip of the vast electric radio and wire tentacles which, octopus-like, ran back to center brain and muscles of the defense plan.

There was a kettle of what all old AEF'ers in the last World War would recognize by odor and sight as "slum gullion," simmering on a little charcoal stove—good solid beef stew. The ration detail had brought it in five gallon vacuum containers, a food service which supplies the outposts with three substantial hot meals a day. For the soldiers of "this man's" war, as the old phrase goes, feed off the top of the roast.

In fact the waiter of the officer's mess at Company headquarters where the writer and his official conductor, Major William F. Bench of Lynn, tarried for a robust lunch of roast beef, pan browned spuds, and assorted vegetables, was a tall, blondish man of rounded line and a punctillio manner who laid his platters down with an austere air. He had been a butler for a wealthy family but now practised his profession in more rugged surroundings, far from his old crystal, silver and snowy napery.

Now, instead of Beauf a la Fountainbleau and Pommes Rivnoles he served hunks of succulent roast cow, oven-toasted murphies, slabs of Army baked "punk," and crocks of hot java sweetened with Cuban "dandruff." Desert was apple pie a la mode.

War with its full implication of ferocity has not reached these rugged outposts and pleasant, colonial purlieus of New England as yet. The sound of shrapnel, the hornet whisper of bullets, the staccato stutter of machine guns, the blood, tears and sweat of mortal combat are, perhaps, far away. But the precautionary army is in position and ready. The enemy, whether bombing plane, raider or saboteur will not find the patrols dozing at their posts. The defense setup has passed the stage of theory and is in actual operation. Let New England feel reassured.

Guarding Puget Sound

Submarine trap net is laid across Rich Passage, Puget Sound, by a Gate vessel and one of the net tenders built at the Lake Washington shipyards. The nets balk enemy submarines that seek to raid harbor shipping.

OUR DAILY CITATION: To Infantry Captain George H. Chapman, Jr., former Bostonian, now revealed as the first American to shoot down a Japanese plane in the Battle of the Pacific. Here was action in the traditional New England manner—the kind of action that will make the United States victorious in this war.

NEW YORK will shortly consider legislation to make military training a compulsory study course for every high school boy.

If the proposal becomes law—and there is every reason to believe it will—at least half the time now alloted to physical education will be utilized for instruction in the manual of arms, close-order drill and military discipline.

Massachusetts should adopt similar legislation, the sooner the better.

We currently have military training in many of our high schools and academies; we ought to have it in all of them.

MILITARY DRILL BENEFITS BOSTON LATIN BOYS
All High Schools Should Have Cadet Corps

It is foolish and futile to argue that instruction of this nature inculcates militarism, for the courses can be conducted without the use of actual arms.

Our late perilous condition of national unpreparedness for war—even for defensive war—has tragically demonstrated the suicidal folly of unenlightened and excessive national pacifism.

We all know that in a democratic nation, if the nation is to survive, EVERY CITIZEN must be both WILLING and EDUCATED to take his place in the national defense at any emergency.

Every citizen who is physically able should therefore BE TRAINED ACCORDINGLY, and a certain portion of his life should be dedicated to active military service—preferably at the close of high school or college years.

Moreover, the high school military cadet corps should be an essential part of the national defense system, with its officers' and soldiers' training camps, because it offers the final solution—indeed the only democratic solution—of our national military service problem.

America needs and ought to have the Swiss system of universal military training which the Hearst newspapers have long advocated.

On June 30, 1940, William Randolph Hearst said in his "In The News" column:

"The Swiss system of citizen soldiery is a PROVEN system, a REPUBLICAN system, and EFFICIENT system and an INEXPENSIVE system."

Previously, on June 10, 1940, Mr. Hearst wrote:

"The Hearst papers have earnestly advocated for this country the Swiss system of universal military training as a DEMOCRATIC system which in no way endangers the institutions of a DEMOCRATIC nation.

"The Swiss system supports no standing army of professional soldiers whatever.

"According to the authorized description 'the defense of the Republic rests with its citizens' . . .

"If the United States should follow the universal military service system of Switzerland we would be able to put 5,000,000 MEN into our INITIAL MOBILIZATION LINE, all FULLY and EFFECTIVELY ARMED.

"And we would be able to SUPPORT that first line with ANOTHER 5,000,000 OF RESERVES, all FULLY TRAINED as soldiers.

"That is an army which no nation on the face of the earth would dare attack—a democracy which no dictator, no matter how offensive, would either disparage or defy."

Again, on October 24, 1941, Mr. Hearst wrote:

"The military system of democratic Switzerland has been in successful operation FOR MORE THAN A CENTURY.

"It has been so effective a system for war that it has effectively kept the Swiss nation OUT OF WAR.

"No one of the warlike nations surrounding Switzerland has thought it wise or well to attack that well-prepared country.

"The Swiss system has furthermore been so honest and just a system that it has EFFECTUALLY PRESERVED THE DEMOCRACY OF THE SWISS NATION."

What revels are in hand?
Is there no play
To ease anguish
Of a torturing hour?
—SHAKESPEARE.

LONDON is only 30 miles from the bases of the Nazi bombers in occupied France. Yet the British capital has more stage plays than New York. Its film theaters, night clubs and concert halls are regularly open. Its race tracks, football fields and dog tracks are in operation. Nobody can say the British are complacent as to the seriousness of this conflict. But the government knows from experience that the morale of the population is a highly important factor in modern war. Let's keep this in mind here. President Roosevelt believes in sports and entertainment as morale builders. But certain factions are inclined to a crepe-hanging policy . . . One-third of all divorces occur in the first five years of marriage. So, if you have been married less than five years, watch your step. Keep your patience, tolerance, understanding and capacity for affection in good working order . . . A million records of "Chattanooga Choo Choo" have been sold. When 5,000,000 more records of this ditty are sold it will have equalled the sale of the hit of the yesteryear, "Dardanella." This latter song was played and sung so much that a long suffering public was on the point of asking that it be stopped by law. Another much rendered number was "The Merry Widow Waltz." The repetition of this was so great it inspired another song called: "I'd Like to Shoot the Man Who Wrote the Merry Widow Waltz." Other songs the public thought they would never hear the last of were "Poor Butterfly," "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean" and "The Music Goes Round and Round."

SIDELIGHTS: Why is it so many cooks do not know how to manage the most popular items on the American menu? Take pie for example. Not one cook in 10,000 seems to know how to make good pie crust . . . "There have been certain plays in which it was considered hard luck to appear. Can you name some?" asks a Milwaukee subscriber. Only one I know of is "The Tales of Hoffman." A number of persons featured in this opera have said to have had hard luck ever after . . . "We are two young nurses of Seattle," states a communication. "We are thinking of buying a small farm near Bremerton, Wash., and working it in the summertime, continuing as nurses the rest of the year. What do you think of the idea, Eddie?" Better consult an expert, girls. But how about working the farm all year around as a rest cure establishment? Or as one of those health farms where the ladies go to cure bridge game hips, also known as stenographer's hips and coffee shop cashier hips. Or, as nurses are known to be the most proficient walkers and have the best carriage of all females, why not open a walking school for women.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: How have the meat courses been at your house lately? If not up to what you think they should be, why not request your home manager to send for the meat buying guide issued by the American Meat Institute of Chicago? . . . Our pup is getting too much health or too much vitamin candy. He just jumped on the desk and tried to rip the paper out of my typewriter. He wants me to take him for a walk; one of about 20 miles preferred . . . "What college did you say had the best looking co-eds?" asks a Chicagoan. Don't remember saying anything about that, sir. But now that you bring it up, I will say it is the University of Washington at Seattle.

Thinks Her Song Describes Person in Love

PASSING BY: Horace McCoy. Known in Hollywood as "The Texas Gene Fowler." Mr. McCoy wrote that quaintly titled opus, "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" He believes Amelia Earhart is alive and has recently written an article explaining the basis of this belief . . . Vivienne Segal. Feminine bowling champion of her block. Also undefeated smoke ring blowing champion of the Pal Joey company. Miss Segal's favorite song at present is "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered," which title she claims is the best four word description of love ever written.

BLONDES, ETC.: Now I find I have a reader in Saba, Netherlands West Indies. Haven't been so amazed at my progress since I learned I had a reader in Smackover, Ark. Saba is that island on which I was told there was an excess of female population—mostly beautiful blondes. I was misinformed. My reader on the Island of Saba says in part: "As for the women here being all beautiful blondes, the fact is they are mostly an insipid looking lot with pale, freckled faces, stringy bleached blonde hair and terrible figures."

SONGS: "It is the best of all trades to make songs and the second best to sing them," said Hilaire Belloc. This causes us to think of Fred Fischer, who passed on recently. Fred wrote the above-mentioned "Dardanella." He also wrote "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "Come Josephine in My Flying Machine," "There's a Broken Heart for Every Light on Broadway," "Daddy, You've Been a Mother to Me," "Ireland Must Be Heaven," "They Go Wild, Simply Wild Over Me," "When You Know You're Not Forgotten by The Girl You Can't Forget" and "I Found a Million Dollar Baby in a Five and Ten Cent Store."

Sally DeMarco

Broadway's Voice

SALLY DeMARCO SETS NEW VOGUE

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—I sometimes think the art of miscasting is capable of bringing neat reward. As an example, take a peek into Fefe's Monte Carlo and see what the Jessels of Broadway are doing in a hitherto extremely snooty spot where formerly the Lowells spoke only to Goddard . . . I thing we might revive the old New England ducking stool, by which gossips were punished in the early days of the nation, for the blabbers who insist on mongering "inside information" about the war. Mr. Byron Price could conduct the ducking, and it might be fun to hold it in Rockefeller Plaza . . . or the lake in Central Park . . . I saw a preview of "Kings Row" last week, loved it. The movies keep getting better and better at translating novels to the screen, although in this instance you do get the feeling that this is less the story of Kings Row than of the two boys. Still, the trend is very encouraging.

LINDA DARNELL

PAN-AMERICAN RELATIONS have taken on a new twist in the bistro belt since the draft has claimed one eligible lad after another, including the ever-circulating playboys. In their place has cropped up the welcome Latin-American, plentifully supplied with green folding stuff and a healthy inclination toward the antic. These gentlemen from below the Equator play the way brokers and bootleggers used to in a more golden era. Large parties gladdened by champagne are their idea of fun, blondes are what they prefer, and jewels and furs are their favorite gifts for anything but the most casual occasions.

Hollywood continues to report that Kay Kyser and Linda Darnell are a hot-and-heavy romance, but his friends in the East continue to insist that the bandleader has been married to Ginny Simms for years. Ought to be an interesting denouement one way or the other.

FUNNY HOW STYLES START. After Sally DeMarco recovered from an attack of the flu, which kept her out of "Banjo Eyes" for a week, she took to wearing woolen stockings—for the prosaic purpose of keeping her tootsies warm. The chorines at the Cantor show, however, copied her, and now woolen stockings are a backstage fad! . . . I know an elevator operator who sings snatches of folk songs in a rich bass voice as he rides you skyward. I always expect some producer in the elevator to step forward and say: "I want that voice in my next show!" Well, it would happen that way in the movies . . . I enjoyed that fog the city had a few days ago. It turned the town into an eerie place where wraith-like cabs cruised noiselessly through the streets and buildings were quite invisible until they suddenly loomed a few feet away. It was a fine fog, a John Ford or an Alfred Hitchcock invention; it made the night seem heavy-laden with intrigue. Let's have more of them.

WINSTON CHURCHILL has been covering so much ground and water lately, he really ought to come out with another book about the war, entitled "Blood, Sweat and Tearing Around" . . . There've been so many bandleaders around with first monickers like Duke, Baron, Count and Earl, it's refreshing that one is called simply "Cootie" Williams . . . Hearing Dick Powell sing "Lullaby of Broadway" at Leow's State this week takes you back to the days of the early Warner Brothers musicals, when Busby Berkeley was designing dance routines that baffled the imagination and could only have been performed on a stage the size of the State of Nebraska. Berkeley must be slipping. His most recent efforts in mass terpischore were for the Mickey Rooney picture, "Babes on Broadway"—in which the dances took place in a paltry city block. Hollywood's certainly getting conservative.

IT'S AMUSING how you strike up an acquaintance with the newsdealer on the corner very quickly, and usually grow to enjoy his odets comments as you plunk down your pennies for the late edition . . . A really exciting string and piano quintet is that composed of the five Figuero brothers, artistic good-will ambassadors sponsored by the Government of Puerto Rico. They play next at Town Hall on the 30th . . . Numbers are becoming quite a vogue in the night club registry. Now there's 21, which was the first club I ever went to that was known by a number instead of a name, the 1-2-3, 18, 23, Room, 181, and no doubt some others I can't remember. I was curious about the name of the new place. Club Whitaker, and I was informed that they considered 300 trade names for the spot before they finally decided upon the name of one of the owners.

BOSTON after DARK

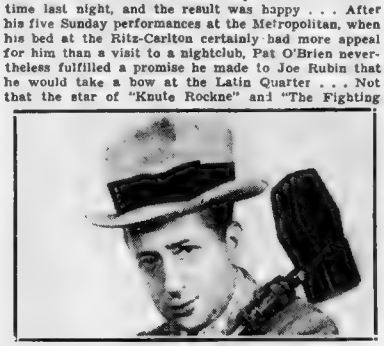
By GEORGE HOLLAND

MONDAY MUSINGS: Pat O'Brien thinks that Ranny Weeks, the Mayfair's maestro, is the best prospective musical comedy leading man he has seen in years . . . With Randall devoting every possible off-duty minute to civilian defense, Pat will have to wait until after the war for his "discovery" to test the O'Brien judgment of talent . . . Lou Holtz, on the other hand, made a discovery in Boston which should have quick consequences . . . As many events in the show-world happen by chance, Holtz's finding of a girl foil in pretty little Conchita, a dancer, is not unusual on that score . . . That Conchita should suit his style of comedy perfectly, and better than stars like the late Lyda Roberti and Carmen Miranda is almost a miracle.

CONCHITA HAD NEVER SPOKEN a line in her brief career of entertaining until Lou made his Boston bow Wednesday . . . She is a small, saucer-eyed Latin-American, with a cameo figure . . . She and Holtz hardly had exchanged their first lines of chatter than that electric something which grips an audience, and causes it to fix its attention on the performers, had set in . . . The pair—helped by the aforesaid Maestro Weeks as a feeder for the gags—worked together like a charm . . . It wouldn't surprise anyone, including Lou himself, if arrangements were made to book Conchita and her husband, who dances with her, wherever Holtz works in the future . . . The incident has a touch of fore-ordination, too.

WHEN HOLTZ ACCEPTED the Mayfair booking, the comedian asked the management to book a foreign dance team on the same bill . . . He explained that he uses a girl with a fluency in any language other than English in what he calls his "translation bit" . . . So the management booked the team of which Conchita is the ornamental half.

BENNY DROHAN'S PALS and admirers should take care of the gross receipts at the Rio Casino this week . . . Benny opened last night . . . Not too substantial a boost is required to keep "Adrift in New York," which continues its run, to hold the Rio's stage for weeks to come . . . Hal Le Roy's agile toes skipped over the floor of the new Latin Quarter for the first time last night, and the result was happy . . . After his five Sunday performances at the Metropolitan, when his bed at the Ritz-Carlton certainly had more appeal for him than a visit to a nightclub, Pat O'Brien nevertheless fulfilled a promise he made to Joe Rubin that he would take a bow at the Latin Quarter . . . Not that the star of "Knute Rockne" and "The Fighting 69th" (and his favorite, "The Front Page") didn't enjoy himself . . . A gracious and cordial guest at all time, Pat had a grand time.



LOU HOLTZ, NIGHT CLUB WIT

Discovers ideal feminine foil here

IF LESSER LIGHTS of Pat's profession would like to study the enormous popularity of Mr. O'Brien, his schedule in Boston should prove fruitful . . . Tuesday Pat appeared at The Mayfair's guest night . . . Thursday he showed up for Mickey Alpert's "celebrity night" at the Cocoanut Grove . . . Last night's visit made his acceptance from the three Boston nightclubs which seek out visiting stars unanimous . . . And you can collect on him squeezing in a lobster dinner at Jimmy O'Keefe's Grill, a call at the Rio Casino and a supper at Ruby Foo's before he leaves town Thursday.

JOHNNY ORLANDO, THE RED SOX trainer, has adopted a "stove league" profession, and is behind the stick as a new member of Jack Kearney's Bartender Union at O'Keefe's popular spot . . . The Back Bay place is Boston headquarters for most of Orlando's charges in the regular season, and the atmosphere is not strange to him . . . Now that 'Porgy and Bess" has been accepted as solid hit in New York, news comes that a host of "angels" will enjoy its success . . . The roster of the show's backers is nearly as long as that of "Arsenic and Old Lace," and a pleasant surprise to Boston newspapermen and women was that Jean Dalrymple, most charming of the girl press-agents, has a share in the profits . . . Jean didn't mention her ownership while she was in town, on the grounds of ethics, probably . . . As it was, 'Porgy and Bess' was the best press-agented show of the season.

MISS WOODWORTH DINNER GUEST

By Louella O. Parsons

Miss Woodworth

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26—Hold everything! Through the efforts of Producer George Stevens Columbia has just planked down a reputed $275,000 for the privilege of putting "The American Way" in the movies. Harry Cohn and his associates have started a record for 1942, just as they did in 1939 when $200,000 was paid for "You Can't Take It With You." "The American Way," one of the most successful plays by that famed writing duo, George Kaufman and Moss Hart, played to 1,500,000 people on Broadway. When it was at its height Kaufman and Hart asked $300,000 for their prize. The deal for this saga of an immigrant family was made possible by Max Gordon and Harry Goetz, Columbia producers. Max was co-producer with Sam Harris of the stage play, which originally co-starred Florence Eldridge and Fredric March and had 250 people in the cast. However, when it reaches the screen, Stevens will both direct and produce.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Bing Crosby's brother Bob and Mrs. Bob have dated the stork and hope he arrives with a baby brother July 4th. They already have a darling girl; Walter Winchell—lieutenant commander—pardon me, arrives in Hollywood in two weeks to recruit Hollywood talent for a Navy show; Aileen Pringle, looking like a million, has been doing the night spots with George E. Stone; Marjorie Woodworth, the girl who looks so much like Jean Harlow that it's uncanny, dining with Monroe Greenthal at Mike Lyman's. They were the guests of the Harry Brands; Gracie McDonald, Ray's sister, is talking to M-G-M about a term deal; Norma Talmadge hosted a dinner party, one of the few she has given in a long time. SCALP LOTION ANSWERS PROBLEM OF OILY HAIR

By ARLINE GOULD

YOU MAY PROBABLY count yourself as being very fortunate . . . if your scalp and your complexion are definitely on the over-oily side, and you've passed through the teens without having acquired acne or some prominent and disfiguring blemishes.

If . . . however . . . that's cold comfort . . . because your hair defies regulation of over-active oil glands . . . then you should know about a lotion for the hair and scalp which was created by a skin specialist who firmly believes the scalp can infect or at the very least, affect the complexion.

She feels that skin and scalp disturbances frequently accompany one another. So, treating an acne-infected skin and neglecting the scalp is just tossing time and effort out the window.

Simple but special treatment is required for the scalp—this proper lotion, good brushes. And the routine should be as faithfully gone through every night as brushing your teeth, but with extra vigor.

You needn't, of course, have acne or even be threatened by it to find that this scalp lotion is the answer to your oily-hair problem . . . particularly if there is also evidence of dandruff, and even a tendency of the hair to fall out.

The scalp lotion is a little prize and a charmer, we think, because in spite of the fact that it is medicated, it is clear and light and has a pleasant fragrance.

You'll use it often, as you should . . . and you'll never risk the hopeless feeling that even a scent of clean but unmistakable medication may prove unwelcome to some sensitive nose!

To learn about this unusual scalp lotion, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4080, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

• FOOD •

By Martha Lee

THE OLD SAW, "There's nothing new under the sun," certainly does not apply to the kitchen where the homemaker is on her culinary toes. Her menus are packed full of new ideas gleaned from the food pages of newspapers and magazines.

Something new to add to 1942 menus is Cheese Apple Cobbler. The distinctively American combination of apples and cheese, popular since the days when our ancestors hewed their way to civilization, dons a dress that is as new as tomorrow's fashions.

Pared and quartered apples, tossed in a mixture of sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg is the beginning of a delicious dessert. Light, fluffy scone dough rolled out, sprinkled with sharp yellow cheese, and coiled to form a ring, makes the topping for this delightful dish.

CHEESE APPLE COBBLER

6 cups peeled, sliced apples (½ quarts)
2 tbsp. flour
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. sugar
4 tbsp. shortening
2 eggs
½ cup milk (about)
1 cup grated cheese

Mix apples, flour, sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg together. Bake in a greased 8-inch casserole in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 30 minutes or until apples are soft. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Cut or rub in shortening. Beat 1 whole egg and 1 egg yolk, reserving 1 white for tops. Add milk to beaten egg and add all to flour mixture. Stir only enough to make dough hold together. Turn out on lightly floured board and kneed a half minute. Roll dough out into rectangular sheet ⅛ inch thick. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Roll jelly-roll fashion sealing edge firmly. Form into ring on top of apple casserole, sealing the ends. With scissors cut through ring almost to center, in slices about 1 inch thick. Turn each slice slightly on its side. Brush with diluted egg white and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes or until browned. Serve hot or cold with plain or whipped cream. Makes 8 servings.

SERVE CHEESE Apple Cobbler with plain or whipped cream.

Serve this cobbler hot from the oven, have a fat pitcher of cream on the table to pour over all and watch it disappear from sight. For an extra treat, place scoops of ice cream over each portion.

Apple Dumplings, too, make a hearty and delicious wintertime dessert. Both dumplings and cobblers should be baked or steamed at the last moment if they are to be served piping hot.

APPLE DUMPLINGS

3 large cooking apples
1 recipe shortcake dough
¾ cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
2 tbsp. butter.

Pare, halve and core apples. Roll dough ¼ inch thick on lightly floured board and cut in 6 squares. Place apples on squares of dough, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, and dot with butter. Wrap dough around apples, place on greased baking sheet, and bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) until apples are soft, about 25 minutes, or steam on plate in perforated top of steamer 40 to 45 minutes. Serve hot with plain or whipped cream, lemon sauce, or hard sauce. Makes 6 dumplings.

SHORTCAKE DOUGH

3 cups sifted flour
4½ tsp. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. sugar
½ cup shortening
¾ cup milk (about)
2 tbsp. softened butter

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or 2 knives. Stir in milk gradually, mixing just enough to make a smooth dough. Divide dough in half. Pat one-half in 7-inch pan, spread with butter, and put other half, patted to fit, on top. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes. For individual shortcakes, pat dough in 12 2-inch rounds. Put together with butter. Place on baking sheet and bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) about 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

ALL PURPOSE BEACH COAT SOUTHERN WEAR FEATURE

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ALL the mighty talents of designers are being bent these days to helping women look sweeter and more charming than ever, without overlooking the fact that life is real and mighty earnest. An item that is introduced for wear on the southern beaches is a case in point. It is the long beach coat that can be worn elsewhere, and that is completely charming to look at.

Tina Leser proposes such coats made of coarse crash that can take it, and decorated as the sketch shows with very large flamingos in their natural incredible pink colorings. The swim suit is made of pink lastex taffeta, and has a rather high V-shaped neckline.

This coat has a pink set-in belt, and the skirt is full at the front, the fullness in unpressed pleats.

Defense Bonds Safest for Savings

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT
National Woman Director of Civilian Defense

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, SUNDAY—After presiding at the National Defense Forum of the General Federation of Women's Clubs on Friday evening, I took a night plane for Fort Worth. I am delighted to find my daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, and the new grandson very well, and have had a wonderful time with her and the children. I am not, however, completely neglecting my work, for I have seen a number of people on questions dealing with National Defense while here.

It is a good thing to be out in the field and to find out what people are doing. After all, in the Office of Civilian Defense in Washington, I sit in a nice little ivory tower and can make a great many plans. It is out in the community, however, that people do the things which bring them a sense of confidence and ability to meet attack on every front.

I am off again and hope to reach Washington in the morning by plane.

Mr. Rex Stout has sent me a delightful story, for which his sister is responsible. I am going to give it here, exactly as he has written it to me:

"Jim, the young man who used to sell me eggs, dropped in last evening and I asked him how he was making out in his new job at the tool factory. 'Fine,' he said. In spite of the expense of the baby he and his wife were saving money every week.

"I said: 'Of course, you're buying defense bonds with it?' 'No,' he said, 'guess I ought to, but with the baby to think of—such a responsibility, our first baby—we just feel we can't afford it until we've got maybe a thousand dollars put away—then we can start buying defense stamps every week.'

"And Jim isn't dumb by any means, he's a very intelligent young man. I wonder how many Americans have the same understanding he had—thinking that when they buy defense bonds or stamps, they are giving something, making a contribution? I explained to Jim that defense bonds are the safest investment in the world today—the best and safest way for people like him and his wife to save money."

Someone suggested to me that defense bonds might well be given a new name and come to be known as freedom bonds, for they will not only pave the way for freedom now, but they may help us to economic freedom in the post-war period.

Romance

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

MY GIRL and I went through high school together. Everyone knew we were in love and would marry as soon as I could support her properly. My father has a country bank and is in easy circumstances, but of course I couldn't bring the girl home to live with my family.

I worked in the bank and was saving all I could. Then the draft came. Now I don't know what the end will be. The night before I left for camp my girl begged me to marry her. She took our parting terribly hard, but I did not think it would be fair to marry her when everything was so uncertain.

After I was in camp three months her letters grew fewer. Then I heard she had taken up with a man who belongs to the snooty country club and was turned down by the draft for physical disability. I now hear rumors that he and my girl are likely to become engaged.

I'm so desperately unhappy about losing faith in her that I'd do anything that would wind up the torment of no longer believing in the dearest thing on earth to me. SOLDIER BOY.

It's cold comfort to tell you that a girl who could forget so quickly and easily wouldn't make a good wife for any man. If you married her you would have been probably deliriously happy for a year or so.

It's the grimmest thing in life to go on when one's faith in human nature has been wrecked. But it has to be gone through with, and time heals. You will meet someone who is more worthy of your constancy and love. Meanwhile, please don't think me cynical if I remind you that the best way to forget inconstancy is to find someone attractive near at hand.

BEST METHOD FOR BRUSHING WALLS

For walls that need only dusting use a long-handled brush. Apply the brush with a light touch, in order to remove the dust without streaking the wall. Brush upward from floor to ceiling, since the tiny threads of dust are attached by one end to the wall and hang down. The brush moving upward catches the free end and removes the thread.

START DAY WITH FRUIT DRINKS

Wake yourself up with a cool, refreshing glass of unsweetened pineapple juice which has been chilling in the refrigerator over night.

Or while the sausages sizzle, pour contents of a can of unsweetened pineapple juice into a screw-cap jar—leaving enough room for a thorough shaking, add two or three lumps of ice, adjust cap, and shake like mad until a deep froth forms on top.

Pour into glasses and drink at once. After the first glass you'll probably decide it's worth a two-minute earlier rising just to try again.

ORANGE RIND USED IN ICING

Frosted Coffee Cake is perfect flavor-mate to breakfast coffee. Spread the hot-from-the-oven coffee cake with a simple icing made of confectioners' sugar moistened with a small amount of water. One-fourth teaspoon grated orange rind in the icing gives a delicate tang. Chopped nuts sprinkled over the frosting add a glamour note.

HOT PUFFS THAT GO WITH SALAD

Hot Mayonnaise Puffs make excellent accompaniment for any salad. To make them, beat one egg white until stiff, then fold in one cup of mayonnaise. Pile on salt wafers, and toast under the broiler for about three minutes or until puffed and delicately browned.

FOR BREAKFAST TRY COFFEE CAKE

Good beginnings make good endings, so start the day with apple coffee cake for breakfast. Apple slices sprinkled with brown sugar and cinnamon and baked on top of quick coffe cake batter is a tasteworthy way of using a winter's abundance of apples.

NEW ICE PACK METHOD FOR CANCER FOUND

By G. B. LAL
International News Service
Science Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (INS)—New methods in the application of very low temperatures for checking cancer and other diseases may develop from discoveries revealed today.

Dr. Lawrence W. Smith, who collaborated with Prof. Temple Fay at the Temple University Medical School, Philadelphia, in developing the "ice pack" treatment for advanced, inoperable cancers three years ago, has found the following new principle:

A peculiar cancer-cells destroying effect occurs when the temperature is brought down to between "22 to 24 degrees centigrade," that is, about 72 to 75 degrees Fahrenheit.

When various types of cancer cells, including those of laboratory animals, are subjected to low temperatures of this kind for some time, the cells undergo permanent change. They never again seem to regain ability to grow.

Human cancer cells of various kinds, removed from patients at Temple University Hospital, were grown in flasks by the method developed by Dr. Alexis Carrel and others.

Different degrees of heat and cold were applied.

All experiments showed that for these cells a crisis is reached at temperatures between 44 to 46 Fahrenheit, or very close to these levels of cold.

If such a low temperature can be induced in patients with generalized internal cancers without fatal results, then the new "ice pack" treatments would be employed together with the X-ray treatments.

Howard Directs, Produces Film

"Mister V," a new film produced and directed by Leslie Howard, with Howard himself in the starring role, is to be the first picture release under the new United Artists production banner.

It is the story of an absent-minded Cambridge professor who sets himself the task of liberating a number of prominent prisoners from German concentration camps.

Zonia Duval Tops Old Howard 'Girls From Happyland' Revue

Matching her mood to the carefree title of the Old Howard's new revue, "Girls from Happyland," Zonia Duval promises to be as sparkling as her firecracker-red hair.

She is the star of the stage show, which numbers near the top of its 60-odd cast such well-known burlesque personalities as the stream-lined Patricia Perry, comedian Bob Ferguson and his equally funny team-mate, Max Coleman; Mary Murray, mysteriously billed as "the golden-girl who opens the door out of the past into the future," and the Oriental beauty, Natasha.

Others are Babette, Bob and Barret, dance team; Franklyn Hopkins, master of ceremonies; the Berkeley Sisters, George Gorwin and Cynthia Freeman.

Vaudeville is represented by the Five Maxellos, aerialists; Emmett Oldfield, comedy acrobat; Herald and Lola, snake contortion act; Roney Breen, blues singer, and Al Blane, who plays the harmonica.

"The Wagons Roll at Night," with Humphrey Bogart, and Charlie Chan in Treasure Island," another Sidney Toler-starring chapter in the popular Chan stories, are the screen features.

POWER-TIERNEY CO-STARS OF 'SON OF FURY' DUE AT METROPOLITAN THURSDAY

Film Is Based On Noted Novel

Time turns backward to the turn of the 18th century for the Metropolitan's next screen attraction, "Son of Fury," the Tyrone Power-Gene Tierney co-starring drama based on Edison Marshall's novel, "Benjamin Blake."

Opening Thursday on the Met screen, "Son of Fury" takes the beholder to the port of Bristol, one of the busiest in the world in 1790 and jammed with square-riggers.

Into the town rides one day Sir Arthur Blake from his vast manorial estates of Breetholm. At the gunshop of Amos Kidder, he finds Ben, a child born, according to popular report, out of wedlock to Sir Arthur's elder brother, Sir Godfrey, and Kidder's daughter, Bessie.

Old Kidder, knowing the baronet's cruel nature, refuses to give his grandson up, but is forced to give in. The years pass: black, terrible years, during which Sir Arthur inflicts on Ben every punishment his savage mind can conceive.

Grown to manhood, Ben falls in love with the baronet's daughter. The girl's father is enraged when he discovers the romance. To escape his beatings, Ben stows away on a South Seas-bound vessel, finds a fortune in pearls and falls in love with a beautiful islander. His return to England to clear his birth records and the discovery that his parents were legally married and that he is the rightful heir to Breetholm explain Sir Arthur's inhuman cruelties.

Supporting the stars are Frances Farmer, George Sanders, John Carradine, Roddy McDowall, Elsa Lanchester, Harry Davenport, Kay Johnson, Dudley Digges, Halliwell Hobbes and others. "Son of Fury" is a 20th Century-Fox release produced by Darryl F. Zanuck.

RIO-CASINO SHOW SMART; TOMMY TUCKER AT COPLEY PLAZA

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, JAN. 26, 1942

Travers Essex Star; Spotlight Show Tops

By SAM BERENSON

Highly recommended is that banner show smash currently providing so much favorable gossip along after-dusk avenue . . . for still continuing at the Rio Casino is that hilarious "Adrift in New York," as solid a click as this corner has witnessed in many a moon . . . there's a chuckle a minute in this, all cast in the delightful setting.

It's the Tommy Tucker music at Chauncey Depew Steele's Copley Plaza . . . which is sufficient invitation to dancing feet to drop in at this salon during the week . . . spine-tingling, indeed, is the way the Tommy Tucker serves up that "I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire" . . . further at the Plaza is the sensational mental telepathy couple of Rolf Passer and Dorothea Costello.

Nice goings-on for the week at the colorful Beachcomber, where that island-styled floor revue in a suave tropical setting rates this oasis as highly desirable for your come-dark door-tapping . . . color, speed and variety a-plenty to this smooth offering, the all adding to one of the most appealing bills of the Beachcomber's winter season . . . excellent music, both in the Latin and American manner . . . By all means drop in at Cappy's this fortnight for an earful of that Sam Donahue tune-tossing .

Recommended peeping is that delightful floor revue currently featured down yonder at the gee-whiz Essex Grill Room . . . two sizzling shows, where-in the spotlight shifts from beauty to talent in rapid succession . . . a further poser: Billy Kelly, able emcee of the likable gathering place . . . truly an excellent value center and major rendezvous for your after-the pleasure . . . Up pops another cheery bit of floor color for Lou's Old Harbor House . . . a top-flight emceeing of Phil Ulin plus Bassett Walsh's tune-tossing add to a definite attraction your Rialto roaming . . . and a bustle of activity at this sanged parlor . . . pleasant living is the tuneful song hilting (Dione Parish at Freddie Soracco)Club Vanity Fair

All pause to the Lionel Hampton band whose solid jive at the Brunswick's Bermuda Terrace resounds smoothly along after-dark re . . . there's small doubt but that Lionel is currently swishing hisaton to one of the land's top dan teams, all amply evidenced by the way in which Boston is crowing the Terrace . . . a necessary take-in for rhythm in the modern manner.

One of the most likeable personalities currently in our village is Hollywood's Pat O'Brien, now appearing at the Metropolitan . . . and the throngs who met him at Mickey Alpert's Grove theatrical party were definitely thrilled when Pat dropped by to sing a few Irish songs

Harry Sher, manager of the Silver Dollar, announces beginning next Sunday, a special season of elaborate and augmented floor shows nightly marking the seventh anniversary . . . The name of this cafe is known to many in practically every city. The usual roster of favorite entertainers will be on hand for the month of celebration

Entertainment in the sizzling style at Blinstrub's Village . . . far from Manhattan's Park Central comes the dance team of Winton & Diane . . . while aiding and abetting are Goodrich & Nelson; Wallie Bear; and emcee Boyd Heathen . . . a bright posie to Blinstrub's new cocktail lounge, with genial Tony presiding . . . Don't overlook those fast-stepping shows at the Spotlite . . . for here's an oasis whose popularity increases

Joe Waganbach, genial host of the famed Lawrence Hofbrau, waves again his wand to once again offer that floor magic which is part and parcel of those delightful evenings here.

That new policy of nary a cover or minimum at the Fife & Drum Room of the Hotel Vendome is proving itself a definite success . . . it's a nice brand of floor merriment offered here, that will find you calling time and again . . . Bob Appleton's Circus Room at the Hotel Bradford . . . entertainment fast and gay, that ranks with the finest that Bob has conjured up this season

Bend an ear to the eng ging "Defense Varieties," heard weekly over the ether . . . it's Collector of Internal Revenue Thomas B. Hassett's own show, with yesterday's production its 27th . . . many a star in this . . . with last night featuring Guy Guarino and Hon. Arthur W. Sullivan, Register of Probate, Suffolk County .

Diane Barry, popular radio and night club star, receiving nice comment these days with her style of singing . . . show folks continue to make Ruby Foo's Den their favorite eating rendezvous .

LOU HOLTZ
Mayfair Star

Holtz Stays At Mayfair

It's one of the season's brightest lights along the merry Rialto for at the Mayfair still holds forth Lou Holtz, wowing patrons here-at with his Sam Lapidus characterizations. Holtz has a grand and amazing personality, rating undeniably great calling for your after-dusk visiting. An all star cast with a line of dancing girls complete the gala bill. Theatrical guest nights will continue to be a feature on Tuesday evening. Ranny Weeks and his orchestra for dancing.

FORD SHOW AT TIC TOC

To the Tic Toc comes another of those smooth Ben Ford productions, certain to give patrons one of the brightest of evenings. An accent on beauty and color, which meets the eye in pleasing fashion. Similarly does the fame of the Tic Toc grow as a swing center.

by IZZY ORT

Here I been polishin' glasses behin' my bar for an hour, reflectin'. How do ya like the way the Nazis is runnin' outa Russia these days? They remind me of the Bunion Derbies of twenty years ago. Them guys must have more bunions from runnin'—well, they musta run outa toes ta put 'em on! If any of them runnin' Nazis ever get back far enough ta see Hitler, they'll know they're safe becuz he stays so far back his watch is set an hour earlier!

Them Japs is spreadin' around the map like a measles epidemic in a playground but as soon as we get busier they'll disappear like freckles on a Congo native, especially if some of the lads what enlisted from my place get close to 'em. They'll wish they wuz home at a rice picnic!

All this fuse in the Pacific has upset my business plans as I wuz goin' ta open branches in Hawaii, Australia, an' a few other places. I get so mad at them pocket edition acrobats that every time I think about 'em I go out an' buy more bonds!

Didja ever hear of a necktie bostin' one hundred an' eighty-five bucks? I got one decoratin' my neck now; come in an' take a gander at it an' hear the story!

Chet Boswell, my mc, wants me ta mention him as a "singer of moods," which I will if he will promise ta change the two songs he's been singin' for four weeks!

Marines With Fleet Have Football Spirit

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD A MAN-O'-WAR WITH THE U. S. PACIFIC FLEET, Jan. 26—As this heavy cruiser scoured the Pacific today for Japanese, a group of young men on a forward deck were exercising, and had the Japs been able to look on they probably would have been better able to understand what makes an American such an enthusiastic fighter.

Official News

The group numbered about the same as a football squad at a small college. They closely resembled a grid team in physique, condition, and spirit. They were being coached by a stalwart young man from Cornell. He's a Marine officer now.

Through a megaphone he barked signals and encouragement—"That's the stuff! Give it to 'em!"

He even whaled one husky across the shoulders in praise. And his squad responded perfectly. They gave it to 'em, with vim and vigor and lots of chatter.

The snappy young officer and his squad of Marines, instead of practicing touchdown schemes, were perfecting their technique for dealing out sudden wholesale death.

They were working out on some guns of a respectable size and caliber. They shifted as they counted off, like a backfield getting in position for a play, and leaped to their assignments. With amazing speed they whipped their powerful weapons onto targets and let 'em have it.

Watching them made it easier to understand the defense of Wake Island. The Marines love to fight, and first. They fully believe that when the Army and Navy gaze on Heaven's scenes, they will find the streets are guarded by United States Marines.

The Leathernecks with this fleet can see nothing remarkable about the defense of Wake Island. It wouldn't occur to them that there is any other way than to fight to a finish.

Jobs of Young May Go to Old

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Brig.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, asserted America's industrial manpower must be tripled in the next 12 months to keep pace with demands for equipment of the expanding military forces.

If the war is long, he told the annual secretaries' conference of the Indiana State Medical Ass'n., it might be necessary for partly disabled and older men to take over industrial jobs of young men called to military service.

F. D. SEES PLAY AT COMMAND PERFORMANCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (INS)—President Roosevelt took time out last night from the strain of war work—his first since Dec. 7—to view a command performance of Lillian Hellman's prize-winning play, "Watch on the Rhine."

Closely guarded by Secret Service men and detectives, the President, Mrs. Roosevelt and their dozen guests drove to the National Theater, entered at a side door and ascended to their trio of darkened boxes. But the capacity audience would not be denied a glimpse of the chief executive, and as he entered the third box the entire audience arose.

The President waved, smiled, then took his seat toward the rear of the box, with Secret Service men occupying the first box, screening him from the rear and sides.

Among those in the presidential party were Security Administrator and Mrs. Paul V. McNutt; Brig.-Gen. and Presidential Military Aide Edwin M. Watson; Archibald MacLeish, congressional librarian and head of the office of facts and figures, and Mrs. MacLeish; Presidential Secretary Grace Tully, and Deputy Housing Administrator Ray Cahill.

Across the theater, in the right-hand boxes, were Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, and a large party.

After the performance, Playwright Lillian Hellman was a guest at an informal supper at the White House.

Baer Offers Advice on Blackouts

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

Distributed by International News Service

Some years ago I said there were no secrets in a democracy. Now I notice we are getting smart and are not spilling everying like a runaway milk wagon.

I am not that type of columnist known as a keyhole astronomer. I don't know anybody in Washington and I haven't been active since 1931 when I rode a bicycle from city to city voting wet for the Literary Digest.

However, I want to interfere long enough to warn Congress there cannot be a complete black-out with the juke boxes and pin-ball machines flashing red, green, yellow and purple.

But we sure could make expenses if we could get the enemy to play 'em.

Goodwin Warns Of Bad Roads

In reporting 16 persons killed by motor vehicles last week, one more than the week before and seven more than in the corresponding week a year ago, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin today warned motorists that slippery roads and high speed spell disaster.

"The fatal accident record for the week just past again shows an increase over last year," said Goodwin.

"Having in mind bad road conditions, drivers are going altogether too fast, and there must be an intensive drive by the police and other law-enforcing agencies to reduce speeding.

"During the week 89 licenses were taken away for driving after drinking and 199 were suspended for improper operation.

"Total deaths last year to date, 29; this year to date, 44."

We believe that folks in Greater Boston are honest and that's why we make loans here on the most liberal basis we know. Your promise to pay is good enough for us.

Sure—we want to know a few simple facts about you before making the loan. That's only common-sense. But you can be sure that we won't annoy you with any embarrassing questions or investigations. Come in; tell us how much you want and how you'd like to repay it. Then just sign and get the cash.

'STOP CHICAGO,' EAST CRY IN ALL-AMERICA FINALS

CYO BOXERS PRAY FOR PALS

LIKE FRANK LEAHY'S "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame members of the famous Chicago CYO team pray before they enter battle in the ring. Sunday found the youthful boxers attending mass at St. Mary's Church in the North End under the supervision of Rev. William Gentleman and Trainer Paddy Kane.

The clear eyed young athletes received communion in a body. They offered their communions not for victory in the All-America finals at the Garden tonight, but for two of their members now making a glorious stand with General MacArthur's gallant army in the Philippines and for their own physical and moral well being.

The two CYO boxers with General MacArthur's army are Johnny Cahill and Larry Jordan. They enlisted with the regular army some months ago and were in the Philippines when the Jap horde descended on the islands.

"Johnny Cahill and Larry Jordan are good boys and fine boxers," said Paddy Kane with deep affection. "General MacArthur must have many other boys like Johnny and Larry in his command judging by the marvelous showing he has been making against tremendous odds."

"General MacArthur is a man of whom every American can be proud," said Fr. Gentleman. "Our boys admire him a great deal, and they are happy that Johnny and Larry, two of their pals, are out there helping him."

It was typical of this fine CYO team from Chicago to think of Cahill and Jordan during Sunday church services.

In the CYO boys are taught to pray for their own health and that they be good citizens. Victory usually comes to boys who live right, but triumphs in the ring are incidental to the bigger and more important things of life.

"My boys will fight as hard in the Garden ring tonight as Cahill and Jordan are battling in the Philippines," said Paddy Kane. "I think that by so doing we'll win our share of titles."

Prayers Inspire Boys

Prayer gives athletes an emotional lift that enables them to perform at their best. The athlete who has faith in prayer usually follows the rules of training and is in the best possible physical condition when he enters the ring. He is mentally and physically prepared for the big test.

When Jack Sharkey was boxing Jack Dempsey, Max Schmeling, Tommy Loughran and other leading boxers in New York, he would drop into a church off Broadway following the weighing in ceremonies.

One day I met Sharkey as he came out of the church. I asked him what he prayed for on the day of a bout.

"I never pray that I shall win," said Sharkey as if reading my thought. "There is no reason why God should favor me over my opponent. I pray that I shall come through the bout without suffering a serious injury."

The Notre Dame football team always receives communion in a body on the day of a game. There is no special prayer for a victory on the gridiron. One player once told me that he prayed that he might be a credit to the highest football traditions of Notre Dame.

Tom Thorp's Prayer

I have stood beside Tom Thorp, famous racing and football official, in the stewards' stand of race tracks as the thoroughbreds entered in the first race came parading down the walk that leads from the paddock to the track. Bright colors flash in the sun, while the young riders try to quiet their nervous mounts.

One can hear the murmur of the spectators, and the quick, sharp voice of the announcer over the public address system.

After the horses have paraded past the judges' stand headed for the post, Tom Thorp always spends a minute in prayer.

My curiosity once prompted me to ask Tom the special purpose for which he offered up his prayers.

"I pray that no jockey gets hurt," said Tom. "People sometimes forget that most jockeys are only tiny boys and that death rides with them every time they break away from the barrier. Racing is not as important as the life of the most humble jockey on the track."

As Tom talked I remembered a day years ago when I was covering Jack Dempsey's training camp at Saratoga Springs, N. Y. A race meeting was in progress at Saratoga at the time. I visited one of the lakes where they had bathing and found Tom leading a swimming class composed of 30 jockeys.

"They are fine boys," said Tom. "They like to swim and play like other kids even though they must act the part of grown men during the racing in the afternoon."

Tom's class of 30 boys lived in cottages near the lake. Any questionable character who tried to approach anyone of them about "fixing" a horse race would have been promptly thrown into the lake.

32 Fine Athletes

The 32 boxers from Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Buffalo, Albany and New England who will compete in the All-America finals at the Garden tonight are the finest group I have ever seen in this national competition. They have come through various sectional tournaments as champions. Tonight they will make their supreme fistic effort with each boy confident of winning.

Win or lose the rival boxers will show the courage, ability and sportsmanship for which American athletes are famous the world over. They possess the traits which will enable American boys under the direction of Gen. MacArthur and other able leaders to defeat the Axis military might everywhere.

Willard Buckless of Saugus who seeks welterweight title.

By RINGSIDE

Amateur boxing reaches its season's climax tonight, when 32 of the nation's outstanding mitt men fight for eight Grand All-America titles at the Garden.

Brilliant boxing and lethal slugging will be on the menu when teams representing the Chicago CYO, Alleghany Mountains, Eastern champions and Diamond Belt titleholders, trade leather for their big chance at the most highly-prized titles in amateur boxing.

The contestants, some veterans who wish the great distinction of an All-America title before graduating to the professional ranks, others comparative youngsters who come to the fore with sensational ability, comprise the all-star, all-action program.

The eight winners will be true champions!

Facts prove that the most difficult goal for an amateur to reach is the All-America title.

MULLIGAN VS. CARTER

Jimmy Mulligan, who in 1941 wrote local boxing history reaching the heights with triumphs in the national championships, is scheduled to go all out tonight—after revenge.

The Lowell middleweight was great enough to ascend the national boxing throne, but was unceremoniously thumped by Joe Carter, Rome, N. Y., Negro, in the Eastern All-America championships several weeks ago.

Jimmy punched his way back into title recognition with a triumph in the Diamond Belt championships at the Arena last week. Now he's ready to settle accounts with Carter.

HEBERT VS. PEPPI

Tony Peppi, North End flyweight and Eastern All-America champion, stands on the brink of realizing his greatest ambition. This is his second try at the title.

He failed before and intends to make amends, but may be stopped short by another Massachusetts youngster who has blazed a short but meteoric trail in amateur circles, Joe Hebert of Lowell.

Peppi was moving along merrily a few months back, beating aside all local opposition, when one night he ran into Hebert, a kid he had trounced with ease once before.

It was a different Hebert, though, as Peppi found out to his amazement and dismay. After taking a shellacking in the first round Hebert surged through the next two to have the champ hanging on, hurt and bewildered.

That made the score one apiece. Another feud to be settled! Billy Cochran of Pennsylvania and Al Noto of Chicago have yet to be heard from. They are a couple of flyweights capable of upsetting the Hebert-Peppi "natural."

Willard Buckless, Saugus 147-pounder, rated as one of the greatest welterweights in the nation, may find a peck of trouble in Frankie MacDougall, a kid who was making his novice bow and first ring appearance only five weeks ago, while Buckless was nonchalantly breezing to another of his many titles.

WON SULLIVAN AWARD

Doing it the hard way, MacDougall used the only style of fighting he knows, force, then force some more, hit, then hit some more and the amazed experts sat by and watched him punch his way to a Diamond Belt title as well as the Timothy H. Sullivan memorial award as the outstanding boxer on the program.

It seems a wild guess, at best, to say that MacDougall belongs in the same ring with fellows like Buckless. Yet Frankie has never tasted defeat. He will have to be beaten in the ring, not with newspaper clippings.

That's the way the entire card shapes up. Loaded with champions, loaded with feuds, loaded with kids with burning ambitions, to realize the ultimate goal in amateur boxing, the most coveted

THEY KEEP FLYING—The finals in the 60-yard high hurdles race, at the senior Met track championships in Bronx Coliseum, show, left to right, Joseph Pausha of Manhattan, John Miller, Jr., of N. Y. Eight New Schools In N. U. Track Meet

The 15th annual Northeastern Interscholastic track meet, to be held Saturday, tops the week's scholastic sports program.

After a lapse of seven years, the N. U. meet shifts to the Boston Y. M. C. A. gym, the site of its first seven years of competition. Since 1934, the meet has been contested at the Garden, but, this year, because the North Station emporium was not available, officials were forced to switch it to the 'Y" rather than call it off altogether.

Thirty-five schools will compete, drawing a total of 385 entries. The la meet held at the "Y" in '34, onl 29 schools were entered but there was an entry list of 425.

Mechanic Arts, long a powerhouse among the Boston schools, and the first city school to win the title, is defending champio.1. Chances of the Artisans retaining their crown aren't too encouraging for most of their 1941 point getters have been graduated and they have only one meet under their belts to date.

Eight schools, not represented last year, are entered Saturday. They are Concord, Gloucester, Malden, one time winner of this meet, Medway, Saugus, St. John's High of Danvers, Walpole and Worcester South. They replace Brockton, which has dropped track as a major sport, East Boston, Hyde Park, Milton, Revere, Gardner and Somerville.

The third last round of the schoolboy ice circuits will be held later this week.

The Boston conference again starts the marathon play with its quartet of games Thursday afternoon at the Garden. The Greater Bostons hold the Friday night spotlight at the Arena with the Bay Staters and Eastern Mass. Leaguers taking over Saturday, the former on the matinee and the latter at night.

STAGE PRIVATE FIGHT FOR PLANE WORKERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (Wide World)—A fight card in Paterson, N. J., this week will start at 1 a. m. . . . It's a strictly private affair for workers at the Wright aviation plant, but a couple of pretty good boys, Johnny Yelavich and Danny Rosati, will meet in the main scrap.

Dick Seibert is one ball player who is annoyed because the Athletics are offering a bonus based on attendance instead of a raise.

Says Dick: "It took me a long time to have a good season and now it looks like I picked the wrong one."

The Iowa sports front has a goal of $15,000 with which 10 ambulances will be purchased for the Red Cross. They will be named after former Iowa athletes, such as Fred Becker, the University of Iowa tackle who was killed in France.

Eno Jolsen, Detroit bowler, really rolled a split the other night. He was trying to spill the 3, 6, 9 and 10 pins when his bowling ball split in two . . . Not a bit dismayed, Eno located another ball and grabbed the last laugh by counting games of 197 and 214—just 29 pins over his average.

Red Cochrane, the welterweight champ, takes a night off from his navy duties to referee on the "Bundles for Bluejackets" fight card at Newark tonight . . . With juicy offers to fight Ray Robinson and Charley Burley in front of him, Red probably wishes he could take time to collect a bundle for one bluejacket.

Since Dr. Wilbur C. Smith of Tulane became a member of the N. C. A. A. executive committee, that organization, which never had held a championship in the South, has sent the eastern basketball playoffs, the boxing championships and the tennis tournament to Louisiana.

Terry Fox, who played fullback for the Philly Eagles, is going into the Naval Air Corps, and the boys are asking if he won't get lost in the upper strata after coming out of the cellar so suddenly.

Charley Gehringer and Scout Wish Egan of the Detroit Tigers are making a survey for the Michigan Army and Navy Recreation League to learn how much athletic and recreation equipment is needed for the Army and Navy posts in that State.

If you wonder just how good a basketball squad they have at the Jacksonville (Fla.) Naval Air Station, such guys as Gustafson of Penn and Mann of Purdue are on the "D" team, which is just about equal to the "A."

Sailor Bill Posedel of the Boston Braves is figuring on going back to the Navy before the draft can get him. When he comes out, he says, he will become an umpire. "I can do better than some of those guys who think the only way to call a strike is by a union vote," Bill claims.

John Fenlon Gets Richmond Grid Job

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 26 (AP)—Johnny Fenlon, University of Richmond backfield coach and former George Washington University athlete, will replace Glenn Thistlewaite as Richmond's head football mentor next fall.

Mac Pitt, basketball coach and football assistant, will take over Thistlethwaite's duties as athletic director.

Sarah Cooke Praises Play Of Pauline Betz

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Pretty Sarah Cooke believes she's hitting a tennis ball harder and better than when she won the national championship, but she's by no means convinced her title will be easy to retain.

"Pauline Betz' playing has definitely improved since I beat her in the finals at Forest Hills," the brunette star explained.

"She's hitting her volleys and her forehands better and she's making some beautiful recoveries.

MUST CONSIDER HELEN

"Of course, she's not the only one to contend with. Dorothy Bundy and Helen Jacobs will be tough, and several of the younger girls may surprise any of the four of us."

Mrs. Cooke, just back from a South American exhibition tour with her husband, Elwood, said she believed constant practice with him had improved her own game.

"I think it's more aggressive than it was, and I've certainly learned to handle speed better."

She added an opinion that "Pauline and I are playing about even now."

That estimate appeared remarkably correct when she and the golden-haired Californian took the court for an exhibition match during the University of Miami invitational tournament.

MULLOY WINS SINGLES

It was the first time they had met since Mrs. Cooke returned to this country, and there appeared to be little to choose between them. The match was ended by agreement at 7-all to allow time for the invitational finals.

Gardnar Mulloy of Miami won the invitational tournament singles yesterday with a 3-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-1 victory over Jack Kramer of Oakland, Cal., while Billy Talbert of Cincinnati and Wayne Sabin of Reno, Nev., scored an upset win over Kramer and Mulloy in the doubles, 4-6, 6-1, 8-6.

Peterson Named Assistant to Holmer

'STOP CHICAGO' EAST'S CRY IN 'ALL' FINALS

crown in the nation, the All-America Grand championship.

There will be representatives from Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Albany, Buffalo and all New England points in this great show of shows, and each youngster will be battling not only for personal glory but giving that extra something as a matter of sectional pride.

After listening to the various trainers, the question of team supremacy is more important to them than individual victories. Each wants to return home with the lion's share of the titles.

The Chicago CYO boys will be the team the other three outfits will be shooting at. Paddy Kane, CYO handler, is really high on his boys. He has been in town since Friday and has lauded them to all who would listen.

KANE PREDICTS SWEEP

On one occasion, Paddy went so far as to predict an eight win sweep. Everybody knowing Paddy realizes when this smart handler goes off the deep end, it must be with good reason.

For that reason the Chicago boys will have to be a little better than they have ever been tonight. Any slip-up and they'll be in trouble, for Pittsburgh, Easterners and Diamond Belters are going to be throwing lots of leather at them all night.

After all, each of the 24 boys outside of the CYO outfit have reached the heights much in the same manner as the Chicago team, and that was by months of gruelling eliminations.

None of them will concede anything to Chicago nor any other opponent, and that's what makes this championship stand out above all others.

It's truly a great take-in.

TEAM WORK—Trainer Hymie Siegel teaches Bill Scheidel, an orphan from a Catholic institution, the fine art of boxing. Scheidel boxes in 126-pound class at Garden tonight.

Catholic-Jewish Duo Bring Out Pitt Ring Ace

Those of you who wend your way down to the Garden this evening for the grand All-America boxing finals will do well to pay particular attention to an 18-year-old youngster named Billy Scheidel of Pittsburgh.

This kid is an orphan who might never have risen to amateur boxing heights but for a Father Francis J. Huber, who without the advantage of a CYO organization, has performed wonders in the Smoky City.

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT

Billy was brought up in St. Joseph's Protectory, which is an Industrial Home for orphaned children.

The youngster showed marked ability in sports, particularly in fighting, and it was brought to the attention of Father Huber. The fact that the home had no gym did not hinder the Pittsburgh priest in the least.

He contacted a public spirited citizen in the town, Ziggy Kahn, who was connected with the Irene Coffman Settlement there—a Jewish institution with a well equipped gym and a smart boxing coach in Hymie Siegel.

Kahn was tickled to help Father Huber. Billy Scheidel is their first outstanding product. Since Billy has come along, several other boys from the home have also started training there.

FACES THE BEST

Billy has been fighting only a little over six months but with sensational results.

He is a 126 pounder, which means he will have to meet standouts such as Tommy Rotolo, Eddie Miller and Walter Barch tonight.

Billy may not be able to lead his class but you are going to see a boy who will really be giving his all.

Stories like this make a fellow feel we live in a pretty swell country after all.

Torger Tokle Fails to Clip Ski Jump Mark

SNOQUALMIE, Wash., Jan. 26 (AP)—Torger Tokle, brilliant young Norwegian, failed to better his American ski jumping mark of 288 feet at the giant Olympic hill, but his two leaps were good enough to win him the Pacific Northwest Ski Ass'n open tournament.

Tokle soared 248 and 263 feet on his two jumps to amass 233.2 points and win the event easily.

His last jump was so perfect as to form that the judges gave him 19.5 points out of a possible 20 for form.

Ready to Drop Grid at N. Y. U.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Dr. Mal Stevens, football coach at New York University, told newsmen he had known for a week the school contemplated dropping the sport and that he had been told the action indicated no dissatisfaction with his coaching record.

Stevens said football had not shown a profit at NYU since 1939 when $4000 was realized and that the Violets won two and lost seven in 1940 while marking up a deficit of $30,000.

A similar record last fall brought a $35,000 loss, he said.

"Under those circumstances, continuing the sport would be difficult," he added.

SO. AMERICAN SKIERS START LONG U. S. TOUR

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

The Senors are skiing here! Four skiers from Chile and two from Bolivia were expected to arrive in New York today to start an eight-weeks' tour of ski centers throughout the United States.

The ski jaunt is being sponsored as a good-will measure by the National Ski Ass'n at the request of the Co-ordinator of International Affairs in Washington.

According to word we have just received from Santiago, the Chilean group will consist of Guillermo Ekdahl Pesse, director of the Ski Club Chile; Don Gaston Fuenzalida Bade, a member of the club and a surgeon; Jorge Vargas Cortes, of the Grupo Excursionistas Caupolican and an enuthisastic mountaineer and Carlos Peralta Becker, member of Club Andino de Chile and a Class B champion.

RECREATIONAL SKIERS

The Bolivians are Raul Posnansky, president of the Club Andino Boliviano, an engineer and builder of the highest ski tow in the world and Roberto Soriano, secretary of the Club Andino Boliviano and a noted mountaineer.

In charge of the tour is Lew Wurzburg, National Ski Patrolman and Red Cross instructor, who, besides guiding the skiers around the country, will coach them in ski safety and modern patrol methods.

Last year's group from Chile was made up of competitive skiers but this year it was decided to place the accent on the recreational type.

We had the pleasure of meeting last year's group of racers from Chile, and they are all very fine lads and good sportsmen. Such a tour will do a lot to promote good feeling between the North and South American, unity being necessary during these times.

The itinerary scheduled for our skiing South American friends leaves us breathless and just a bit envious.

Here it is briefly: From New York, the lads are whisked away to North Conway, N. H., next to Cannon Mountain, jumping now to Pico Peak and Mount Mansfield in Vermont. The party then entrains for Chicago, with stopovers at St. Paul, Minn., and Omaha, Neb.

After this, the lucky lads will spend six days at Sun Valley, hopping off next for Tacoma, Washington, and proceeding to Mt. Rainier.

The remaining points in this trip include Yosemite, California, Alta at Utah, and Washington, D. C., finally leaving New York on March 26th. Quite a ski party!

SKI MOVIE TONIGHT

SKI SCRIBBLINGS: Those Monday evening movies are still continuing at the Hotel Vendome. Tonight's film was taken in the Eastern Slopes region by Paramount camera men, and will last an hour.

February 2, there will be a return engagement of the Sun Valley Picture, "Ski Skill," and Dick Durrance's "Spring Ski Chase." Also another reel, "Snow in Yosemite."

February 9, scenes taken at Gore Mountain, North Creek, N. Y., including comedies and trail skiing.

February 16, all in color, "Skiing in Chile."

DAMORE, MARIO SHINE AS BRUINS ROMP, 7-3

By BILL GRIMES

In a thrilling, free-scoring game the Bruins defeated Les Canadiens 7 to 3 last night at the Boston Garden before a gathering of 10,300, and thus remained within one point of the pace-setting Rangers.

With Bill Cowley, their leading point getter, and Frank Brimsek, their star goalie, out of the lineup, the Rossmen were not given more than an outside chance to win by the pre-game dopesters.

However, Frank Mario, who was recalled from Hershey to take over for Cowley, scored the first goal, and Nick Damore, another Hersheyite, did a truly great job in the nets.

The Bruins clinched the game in the first period by beating Paul Bibeault, who was left on his own most of the night, for four goals. They came up with another in the middle chapter and two more in the final stanza.

HOLLETT'S SPARKLER

The Flying Frenchmen didn't score until late in the second period. After piling up a five-goal lead, the Rossmen relaxed and "Toe" Blake counted. With less than a half minute to go Johnny Quilty beat Damore for the second Canadiens' goal.

In the third minute of the game, Mario came out from the left of the Canadiens' cage with three Frenchmen hanging on to him. He finally shook himself loose and lifted a back hander into the cage for the first tally.

Just before half time, "Flash" Hollett grabbed the puck in his own zone, raced down the left wing boards and scored from almost an impossible angle right at the boards.

With a little more than two minutes to go, there was a face off in Canadien territory, and the pusic shot back to Des Simth at the blue line.

With three or four Frenchmen charging at him, Smith shot and the Puck sailed into the cage. Then at 18:55, the Jackson brothers teamed with Dutch Hiller for the fourth Boston marker.

"Busher" Jackson had the puck but it slipped off the blade of his stick so he kicked it to his brother Art, who passed to Hiller for the tally.

REARDON SITS IT OUT

The game began to get rough in the second period, and there wasn't any scoring until 13:13, when Herbie Cain went down the right wing boards and fired a shot. "Busher" Jackson came in from the opposite wing, and from the stand it looked as though he had deflected it into the cage from inside the crease.

Aided and abetted by Kenny Reardon and Murph Chamberlain, Blake scored the first Canadien goal and with 29 seconds to go, Reardon set up a scoring play for Quilty, making the score 5-2 to start the final period.

Reardon was lost to his club for 15 minutes of the final period. He drew a major for cutting Smith for three stitches, and he was given a 10-minute misconduct for heaving his stick the length of the ice and throwing his gloves.

FREAKISH COUNTER

With Reardon sitting out his major, Hollett and Roy Conacher scored the sixth and seventh Boston goals. Clapper started the Hollett goal, on which Bobby Bauer also was given an assist, but the tally was of a freakish nature, for the puck was batted into the net by the "Flash."

The Conacher marker was started by Eddie Wiseman, but on his first try Roy failed to cause the red light to flash. However, he recovered his own rebound and took particular care that he didn't miss on his second bid.

With less than five minutes to go and the Bruins as good as home, Buddy O'Connor stole the puck from Hollett, went the length of the ice and scored.

MULLOY NET WINNER

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Gardnar Mulloy of Miami came from behind to sweep Jack Kramer of Oakland, Cal., from the courts, 3—4, 6—4, 8—6, 6—4, in the finals of the University of Miami's second invitational tennis tournament.

"I GOT IT" yells Canadiens' goaler, Paul Bibeault, and he did get it, right in the forehead. Shot was made by Flash Hollett (No. 2) of the Bruins. Toe Blake is Canadien trying to stop Hollett thrust.

SMOTHERED—Bobby Bauer of Bruins fails to score in second period against Canadiens, and small wonder. Getliffe and Quilty have him hemmed in, and Portland and Goaler Bibeault are in front of him. Bruins won nevertheless, 7 to 3.

Three 'Krauts' To Be Fliers, Paper Claims

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Ottawa Journal said today that the Boston Bruins' famed "Kraut line"—Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woodrow (Porky) Dumart—"will become members of the Royal Canadian Air Force."

The three hockey stars recently were called up for four months' compulsory military service in the Canadian army, and at the end of that period would be held in uniform for home defense duties.

The Journal said, "Word from a source in Montreal," where the trio played Saturday, "was that they had put in their appearance at the R. C. A. F. recruiting center there."

"It is not believed they signed up then but definitely have discussed joining the air arm, and one source declared they had made arrangements for a medical and would join up for air crew.

"Air force officials here would not confirm the story, but the Journal's source claimed all three had made application."

FITCHBURG, Jan. 26 (AP)—Leo LaValle, of Providence, successfully defended his New England speed skating title here by amassing a total of 140 points in the championship contests held before 9000 at Mirror Lake.

Bertha Jena, 16, of Fitchburg, captured the women's championship, succeeding teammate Carmelita Landry, who is in St. Paul defending her North American women's title. Miss Jena scored 80 points.

LaValle won the 220, 440, and 880-yard events.

ENGEN PROTESTS BAN

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 26 (AP)—Alf Engen today protested a United States Ski Ass'n ruling banning him from further competition in that organization's meets.

BRUINS BUY PHIL HERGESHEIMER FROM HAWKS

Manager Art Ross announced this morning that the Bruins had purchased Phil Hergesheimer from the Chicago Blackhawks.

"Hergie" played for the Bruin Cubs some years ago and was shipped to Cleveland instead of being taken up to the varsity. From Cleveland he went to the Hawks, where he has been for two and a half seasons. He's a right winger.

The Krauts haven't decided yet on the branch of the armed forces they'll enroll in. Jokingly, Woody Dumart remarked he spoke a good word for Bobbye Bauer and Milt Schmidt, while he was taking his physical at London, Ont.

Nick Damore did a nice job while pinch hitting for the injured Frankie Brimsek. He had 24 saves, and many of them were really tough for a goalie of his leg and arm reach . . . Dr. Thomas A. Kelley hopes to have Brimsek ready for tomorrow's game with Toronto Mapleleafs. At present Frankie's face, particularly around the eyes, is badly swollen . . . Damore didn't arrive until less than an hour before game time . . . And, he detrained at the Back Bay station, with Hamie Moore, Win Green's assistant, waiting for him at the South Station . . . For a while it looked like either "Greenie" or Moore would be in the nets for the Bruins.

In the first period, "King" Clancy, the referee, overruled Bill Cleary, a linesman, on an "icing" . . . Frankie Mario broke in in fine style by scoring the first goal. Shortly after, Mario crashed into a goal upright and injured his hip . . . After a face-off in the middle zone, Herbie Gallagher took Dumart out of a play as he was scrambling to get over to the boards.

Mario centered for Roy Conacher and Eddie Wiseman, in lieu of the injured Bill Cowley . . . for almost a period during the opening period, Bill "Flash" Hollett and Joe Benoit were in a clinch on the side boards . . . The "Flash" was doing most of the holding for the puck was in his zone . . . Paul Bibeault, who was peppered from all angles and distances for 60 minutes, was lucky he wasn't seriously injured when he made one stop with his face. Hollett fired a high shot which laid the Canadiens' goalie prone on the ice . . . It was a good thing the Bruins scored four goals in the opening period or the dirge the organist played would have emptied the Garden.

Frank Mario greatly resembles Ponzi Contant, the old Tiger favorite . . . Bibeault robbed Milt Schmidt of a sure goal by reaching up while laying on the ice, catching the puck and tossing it into the corner . . . Damore was so much at ease in the second chapter that he favored with a few elbow saves . . . Johnny Quilty gave Schmidt the old heave-ho in the second period, and the Kraut injured his leg. Hoever, after a hurried treatment by Win Green, 'Schmiddy" stayed in the game . . . Des Smith was cut for three stitches on his forehead during a collission on the side boards with Kenny Reardon. The latter was so mad when he was penalized that along with the major he received for drawing blood he picked up a 10-minute misconduct for throwing his stick and gloves.

'King" Clancy was very lenient with the boys. At times, it looked as if the game was getting out of control for there was considerable rough stuff in evidence . . . Dr. Martin J. Crotty, who has been Bruins' physician for years, is going South for a rest. Between his extensive private practice, the clinic, Bruins and Olympics, Dr. Crotty had overtaxed himself.

Clancy Joins All-Stars

The champion Boston Bruins will find many faces which haunted them in the past, when they collide with the former National League All-Stars in the feature fracas of the gala hockey show for the benefit of the Army Relief Society, Friday, Feb. 6, at the Boston Garden, but one face, in particular, will stand out above the rest.

That will be the smiling, Irish physiognomy of Frank "King" Clancy, currently an eminent N. H. L. whistle-tooter.

The colorful "King," who earned his spurs as one of hockeys greatest defensemen as a member of the old Ottawa Senators and the Toronto Maple Leafs, was always a thorn in the side of the Boston club, especially in the playoffs.

The "King" will perform along with Eddie Shore, Tiny Thompson, Red Horner, the Cooks and Boucher.

Other performers in this benefit show for the widows and orphans of soldiers will be the league-leading Boston Olympics and the Johnstown Bluebirds who will play a regularly scheduled Eastern Amateur League game.

THREE YEARS AGO — Lou Gehrig signed 1939 contract with New York Yankees, accepting cut to probable $35,000. Boston Red Sox signed Jimmy Foxx for reported $36,000

FIVE YEARS AGO—Ellsworth Vines beat Fred Perry, 6—3, 8—6, 6—4, to take lead in pro series for first time, 6 games to 5.

B. C. Hockey Captain Air Corps Aspirant

Capt. Ralph Powers, rugged leader of the undefeated Boston College hockey squad is closing out a brilliant three-year varsity hockey career. Upon graduation the Cambridge youngster will sign with Uncle Sam—probably in the Army Air Corps.

RALPH POWERS

As good a student as he is a hockey player, Powers will be a credit to any branch of the service.

At the moment Powers and his mates are directing their energies toward the "crucial" game with Dartmouth, played one week from tonight at the Garden.

Ralph has been a member of the Boston College hockey squad which have swept through 19 straight games without defeat or tie. In New England League competition Powers has been a member of B. C. sixes (three of 'em) which have posted 24 straight victories.

Thus far this season the Eagles have chalked six straight conquests, five of 'em N. E. loop games. The most impressive win on the list, Boston College's conquest of Yale (4-3), was not a league triumph. The Elis don't operate in the N. E. circuit.

His light buried under "bushels" marked—Chaisson, Dumond, Pryor, Mee, Powers, nevertheless was an important member of the Eagle cast as a junior, and the season before as a sophomore.

Last winter he teamed with Wally Boudreau and Larry Babine on a powerful second line. Babine is now a member of Uncle Sam's armed forces. This year Boudreau and Powers team with Nick Flynn, a junior from Melrose, to give Boston College a potent first line.

Boudreau is the high scorer; Flynn is the playmaker par excellence; but Capt. Powers is the ultra important balance, the gent who makes the line's play click to the queen's taste.

Vermont Loop Sends 6 Teams To Big Shoot

One more New England state has entered the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition, the Vermont State Gallery League consisting of six clubs enrolling in a body.

League Secretary Harmon J. This is the first league which has entered the Hearst shoot in a body. All others entered have been a result of four teams within a club banding into a league just for the big wind-up next spring.

Entries are pouring in now, in view of the fact that the closing date for all tianks is next Friday, Jan. 30, at midnight.

The junior groups will be well represented by the time the entries close, with Sargent College, four C. Y. O. teams and four teams from the Sons of American Legion in Cambridge already entered in this great Hearst enterprise.

As the closing date draws near, it is figured that well over 100 gun clubs will start firing in league competition to become eligible for the Grand Finals which will be held some time in May.

Sam Shovels Snow To See DiMaggio

A seat of honor will be reserved at the Baseball Writers' Dinner at the Copley Plaza Wednesday night for 12-year-old Sam Gwynne, Jr., of 12 Ivanhoe rd., Worcester.

SAM GWYNNE

It will be young Sam's first appearance at the mid-winter spread a belated appearance, by the way.

Last year the youngster made plans to go, but broke his wrist skiing and couldn't make it.

This year he was determined to make amends. Even the $5.50 price tag didn't faze the youngster, who hopes one day to be playing for the Red Sox.

Here is Sam's recent epistle to the baseball writers' ticket custodian:

"Dear Sir:

"Last winter I wrote to Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox about tickets to the annual baseball writers' dinner. In a return letter he stated he had nothing to do with the tickets and he told me to write you. In the meantime I broke my wrist skiing and was unable to go, anyway.

"This year, by shoveling snow and with my allowance, I now have the $5.50 which Manager Cronin wrote me was the price of a single ticket. Are there any tickets left? If so, please let me know and I will send you the $5.50.

"I have always wanted to attend a dinner of that sort, especially in Boston, where some day I hope to be playing for the Red Sox.

"Please let me know soon. With kindest regards,

"SAM GWYNNE.

"12 Ivanhoe rd., Worcester."

"P. S.—Last year my older brother had planned to go with me, but this year he is serving Uncle Sam as a lieutenant in the Air Corps and of course he cannot go."

In another letter young Sam told how his parents promised to take him to the dinner.

"Is the 'Yankee Clipper' going to be there?" he asked eagerly.

So Sam's all set, and not only will he realize his ambition of attending the dinner but will meet all the baseball notables. The writers will see to that.

Baseball's a grand old game when it grips a typical American family such as the Gwynnes of Worcester. A 12-year-old kid shoveling snow to make the ticket price. His brother, on whom he was depending for transportation, in the air corps, so his parents go to bat.

Wait'll he meets Joe DiMaggio, Dick Newsome, Ted Williams, Lefty Gomez, Jim Tabor and the rest.

He'll be in his seventh heaven, even though he might have to miss school the following day.
